SECRETARY OF WAR WON'T TALK ABOUT MEXICAN SITUATION

Mr. Garrison Says His Trip to Atlanta Is Purely One of Inspection—Refuses to Discuss Matters Generally

SECRETARY REQUESTED NO FORMAL RECEPTIONS

Inspection of Fort MchPerson Made—Little Doubt but Brigade Post Soon Will Be Established in Atlanta

LOST—One secretary of war, together with a chief of staff and a colonel in the army. And they were, at that, too, lost in the wilderness of Fort McPherson and the surrounding country for an hour or more Thursday morning while other members of the visiting party sought them vainly with other automobiles and finally abandoned the attempt to follow and returned to post headquarters to await there the return of the secretary and his immediate escort.

They turned up presently, finishing just at 11 o'clock an inspection tour that had consumed nearly three hours and that had taken them to every portion of the army reservation and to other lands adoining it.

Secretary Lindley M. Garrrison made in this manner his first inspection of a government army post and began his tour of all the posts in the country, his purpose is to study each of them (or rather some forty out of the forty-nine now occupied) in order that he may direct a wise reduction of their number and the concentration of their garrisons into larger groups at fewer points.

BRIGADE POST PROBABLE.

That Fort McPherson may be one of those points was indicated by the secretary's thorough survey of it and its surroundings Thursday morning. Mr. Garrison declined to commit himself, however, to any comment whatever upon McPherson's chances to become a brigade post.

Nor would he talk at all upon the Mexican situation. On that topic he was as dumb of the Sphinx.

In conversation upon other subjects, however, he proved himself the affable gentlary that he has been reputed to be.

Accompanying the secretary of war was the chief of staff, Major General Leonard Wood; the chief of the quartermaster corps, Major General J. B. Aleshire; Captain S. J. Bayard Schindel, of the general staff of the army, and Mr. Garrison's civilian secretary, W. T. Pedigo.

The party arrived in Atlanta early Thursday morning, coming directly from Washington. Breakfasting at the new Hotel Ansley, they were met by General R. K. Evans, of Atlanta, commanding the Second brigade, First division, of the army, and by General Evans' aide, Lieutenant Albert S. J. Tate. They were taken immediately out to the fort in automobiles, and spent the remainder of the forenoon until 11 o'clock on their inspection tour. Colonel J. T. Van Orsdale, commanding the Seventeenth infantry, escorting them. Completing their work, they rested upon the piazza of Colonel Van Orsdale's quarters, where the officers of the Seventeenth were presented to them.

A buffet luncheon was served to the secretary and his party by General Evans at his home, 665 Peachtree. Later in the afternoon Mr. Garrison and his party were taken upon a tour of the city and its suburbs by Wilmer L. Moore, president of the chamber of commerce.

At 5 o'clock Thursday afternoon Secretary Garrison and his party were to entrain for Chattanooga, to inspect Fort Oglethorpe Friday, and to continue thence through Tennessee westward to the southwest. They will visit at least one post at the Mexican border, that at El Paso. From the southwest they will turn into the northwest, returning finally to Washington on September 2.

"I expect it to be six weeks of the hardest work I ever have done," declared Mr. Garrison, smilingly. Thursday. "I tried my best to see if somebody else could not do this for me, but conscience would not permit me to shirk it. I could not act intelligently otherwise on matters to come before the war department regarding the concentration of army garrisons."

REDUCTION IN POSTS.

Asked if the number of army posts now occupied is certainly to be reduced soon, the secretary replied:

"I hope so."

The secretary's inspection of Fort McPherson was impressively businesslike. Beyond the firing of seventeen guns in salute, there was no formality or ceremony at the fort in his honor. He began his work immediately upon arriving there, and traversed every road within the reservation and several outside of it, and some that could not be called roads years ago. It was a cross-country ride at times, with the automobiles threading their way between the trees in portions of the fort that few ever see. As though not satisfied with the thoroughness of what he found within the line fences, the secretary faced outside, getting a glimpse of the militia's rifle range at the west end of another large track adjoining the reservation at the south.

General Wood, accompanying the secretary, has visited Atlanta previously and on his latest visit expressed the opinion that Fort McPherson would serve admirably the purposes of one of the proposed new brigade posts.

General Aleshire, one of the army's most experienced officers in the very essential work of the quartermaster's department was concerned with Fort McPherson particularly from that viewpoint.

Indeed alone among those who met Secretary Garrison on his visit to Fort McPherson. In 1893 he was there as a second lieutenant and knew Fort McPherson being his first station after he got his commission. It was there, too, that he met his wife, who then was Miss Isa Glenn, of Atlanta, daughter of John Thomas Glenn, the lawyer who formerly was

LUMB WILL RESIST EXTRADITION MOVE IN CRAWFORD CASE

James A. Gray, Attorney for New York Barber, Declares His Client Won't Come to Georgia Without Fight

ATTORNEYS CLASH OVER PERSONAL REFERENCES

Lawyer for Heirs-at-Law Are Forced by Attorneys for Mrs. Crawford to Retract "Nefarious Scheme" Charge

That Frederick Lumb, charged with complicity in the murder of Joshua B. Crawford in a warrant sworn out by one of the claimants to a portion of the Crawford estate, will fight extradition to Georgia, was learned Thursday afternoon.

James A. Gray, who has been retained by Lumb to represent him, wired The Journal in response to a telegram from this paper, that from the information he had gained about the case as reported in the New York newspapers he would certainly advise his client to fight extradition.

Although Lumb has retained counsel and could probably be located, no effort seems to have been made to arrest him, and no request has been made of the governor for requisition papers. With Lumb refusing to come back to Georgia it will be impossible to bring him here unless a requisition is secured and honored by the governor of New York.

Lumb is a barber to whom Mrs. Crawford is alleged to have at one time been engaged. In fact, it is charged by those behind the warrants swore out against her and Lumb that they were in a plot to kill Crawford and then to get married, thus securing Crawford's money. Mrs. Crawford declares that Lumb was only a casual acquaintance, that she was not engaged to him and that this talk about a plot to murder her late husband is ridiculous.

Personalities were skirted by lawyers on the stand before Auditor James L. Anderson Thursday morning, in the Crawford will case, when P. H. Brewster, Luther Z. Rosser, Burton Smith, and Reuben Arnold, members of counsel for Mrs. Mary Belle Crawford, widow of Joshua B. Crawford whose estate is in litigation, challenged a charge by J. S. James, of opposing counsel, that the settlement of previous suits in the case had resulted from "a nefarious scheme to defraud certain rightful heirs."

Order was restored by Auditor Anderson, but not before the statement had been read from the records by the court reporter and had been stricken from those records.

Colonel Brewster, who had testified in behalf of Mrs. Crawford, was leaving the stand when he stopped to recall the alleged statement by Mr. James.

"I demand that an apology be made to this court," said he.

Mr. James said that if he had made the statement, he did not mean it. The court reporter read the passage to which objection had been raised.

Luther Z. Rosser succeeded Mr. Brewster on the stand. Before beginning his testimony, he leaned across the table toward Mr. James and said:

"If any further reference is made to 'nefarious schemes' in this case, I will consider it a personal affront."

Mr. James was authority afterward for the statement that there probably will be other warrants issued in the criminal phase of the case. Mrs. Mary Belle Crawford is held now on a justice court warrant charging that she murdered Mr. Crawford; and Fred Lump, of New York, is being sought on another warrant that charges him with being an accessory before the alleged murder.

The hearing of the famous Crawford will case, before Auditor James N. Anderson was continued on Thursday morning, with attorneys for Mrs. Mary Belle Crawford, who is fighting to retain a portion of the late J. B. Crawford's $250,000 estate, putting up witnesses.

Attorneys Reuben R. Arnold and Burton Smith stated that it probably would be a week or more before Mrs. Crawford is placed on the stand to deny in person the numerous charges, including murder, which have been lodged against her by the parties interested in the civil litigation.

Before Mrs. Crawford goes on the stand Dr. J. W. Hurt and a trained nurse and several physicians, who will testify that Crawford came to his death through natural causes, will be introduced by Mrs. Crawford's attorneys.

Mexic Plot to Dynamite Office Of American Envoy Sends Consul Fleeing to U. S. For His Life

Official Records Sent to Texas for Safe Keeping—Consul Is Said to Have Reported Discovery of Plot to Washington

(By Associated Press.)

EAGLE PASS, Tex., July 17.—It is said here on good authority that United States Consul Luther Ellsworth, at Piedras Negras, Mexico, opposite Eagle Pass, has reported to Washington the discovery of a plot to dynamite the American consulate, and that his life is in imminent danger.

Consul Ellsworth now takes refuge at the army post in Eagle Pass at nights. The official records of the consulate were removed to the American side for safe keeping yesterday.

Ellsworth reported to Washington that he has been reliably informed that the alleged conspiracy was hatched among constitutionalist leaders in Piedras Negras.

The consulate was removed recently from the main street to the bank of the Rio Grande, where it commands a full view of the American bank. Since discovery of the alleged conspiracy a guard of United States troops has been stationed at night on the American side and a code of lanterns arranged with the consulate.

In case of a call for help Gionsulat, the guard, was instructed to notify the commanding officer immediately. Mr. Ellsworth, however, has been spending his nights on the American side. The constitutionalist commandant Calzado, when told of the alleged conspiracy, assured the consul he need have no fear, ashe was "among honorable people and not among bandits."

General Jesus Carranza has given his personal pledge for the safety of the Americans.

No Report Received By State Department

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, July 17.—Late today the state department had received no report of the alleged plot to dynamite the consulate at Piedras Negras.

Germany Has Taken No Hand in Mexic Affairs

(By Associated Press.)

BERLIN, July 17.—The foreign office denied today that Germany has demanded that the United States government protect foreign interests in Mexico. Germany has not taken any diplomatic action whatever at Washington.

The foreign office is not aware whether Count Von Bernstorff, German ambassador to the United States, has privately discussed the Mexican situation with Secretary of State Bryan, but if he has it was a mission was of a wholly unofficial character.

Protest of Constitutionalists Has Not Reached Washington

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 17.—State department officials said today that the protest of Governor Carranza, leader of the constitutionalists, against recognition of the Huerta government had not yet been received.

It is understood that Governor Carranza combines his protest with a petition that he and his followers be recognized as a faction of de facto control of a portion of the country. The agent of the constitutionalists in Washington claims that 90 per cent of all Mexicans are in sympathy with them.

Some diplomatists point out that one reason which would justify the granting of Carranza's petition is that the rights and interests of the United States are so far affected as to warrant a definition of its own relations to the two warring factions in Mexico. Where a parent government is seeking to subdue an insurrection, and the insurgents claim political nationality and belligerent rights which the parent government does not concede, recognition of that right by the United States would be taken by the Huerta regime as a demonstration of moral support to the re-

SENATOR SMITH HERE TO ADDRESS SOLONS

Speaks in House Chamber on Friday—Receives Friends at Piedmont

Senator Hoke Smith arrived in Atlanta Thursday morning from Washington, in response to an invitation from the general assembly to address the lawmakers Friday at noon in the house chamber at the capitol.

This will be the first opportunity Senator Smith has had to address a body of his constituents since he was elected to the senate, and he will embrace this opportunity to give an account of his stewardship.

Senator Smith has taken rooms at the Piedmont hotel, where he will be glad to receive his constituents during his stay in the city. He expects to return to Washington either on Saturday or Sunday.

The senator declined to make further reply to the attacks leveled at him by Congressman Thomas M. Bell regarding the Gainesville postmastership. He said his statement of a few days ago contained all he cared to say upon the subject.

REPEATS FORMER STATEMENT.

In that statement the senator said:

"I told Mr. Bell that I would vote for the confirmation as postmaster at Gainesville of any one whose name was sent to the senate. It was entirely too much for him to ask that I should aid Mr. Hardy in obtaining the appointment, especially since, in the interest of harmony, I had declined to interfere in behalf of my own friends in this very matter.

"In this connection I wish to state that it has been my policy whenever I made a recommendation at all in reference to appointments in Georgia to secure efficient service from the government, and at the same time to repay as far as possible the political obligations I owe to my friends. Surely no congressman can complain of this. It is the rule they all adopt and is one that properly suggests itself to every man with a spark of gratitude in him.

"I have endeavored at all times to recognize the rights and obligations of my colleagues in both houses. There has been absolutely no disposition or purpose here, so far as I know, on the part of any one to exclude from recognition those entitled to it. Democrats who saw fit to oppose the president in the recent primary in an honorable and proper manner, and any statement to the contrary is entirely unfounded.

"I have, however, insisted, and shall continue to insist, that nowhere in Georgia men be discriminated against because they have been supporters of the president or of myself, and I think it but my simple duty to see that they have a fair and just proportion of the appointments."

Senator Smith expressed the opinion that the tariff bill would become a law within the next six weeks, and that congress would then speedily enact a banking and currency law.

Chairman Wallace Miller, of the joint committee, which arranged for Senator Smith's address, states that the public is invited to be present. The house gallery will be given over to the public.

GOVERNOR SLATON IN BRUNSWICK WITH VETS

Governor Slaton is in Brunswick Thursday to review and address the Georgia division of Confederate veterans who are holding their annual reunion there. The governor will return to Atlanta early Friday morning, and be at his desk in the capital at the usual hour.

Secretary of War Lindley M. Garrison, who is becoming one of the most important members of President Wilson's cabinet just now while there's gossip that the army may be needed, is seen on the extreme left of picture. The others in the group are (from left to right) Major General J. B. Aleshire, chief of the quartermaster corps, Washington; Major General Leonard Wood, chief of staff, Washington; Colonel J. T. Van Orsdale, commanding officer of the Seventeenth infantry, Fort McPherson, and Brigadier General R. K. Evans, commanding the Second brigade, First division, of the United States army, Atlanta.

INSURANCE FIRM FIGHTS FOR PAINTER'S VISCERA

Relatives and Agents of Dead Millionaire in Baltimore for Hearing

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

BALTIMORE, Md., July 17.—Judge Stewart, formerly of the criminal court, brother-in-law of the late E. O. Painter, Florida fertilizer king; Coroner C. D. Abbott, who rendered the verdict of "accidental death"; W. I. Lyman, general manager of the Painter Fertilizer works, and A. G. Hamlin, general counsel for the firm, were interested spectators at the hearing today before Judge Duffy, at which the United States Fidelity and Guaranty company is fighting for possession of the viscera of the dead millionaire.

The Floridians arrived in the city yesterday and it is expected that several of their number will be placed on the witness stand in the course of the hearing.

Dr. Charles E. Glaser who examined the intestines of the dead man and on the strength of whose report the coroner ordered his decision went on the stand today and concluded his statements of the sending of various reports to Florida.

Other medical experts will be called to testify this afternoon.

HOUSE ASKS COMMITTEE ON A. B. & A. PROPOSITION

Joint Commission to Discuss Proposed Purchase—Senate Holds Dull Session

The resolution of Mr. Faulk, of Ben Hill, providing for the appointment of a joint commission from the house and senate to make investigations into the proposed purchase of the Atlanta, Birmingham and Atlantic railroad with a view to extending the state road to the sea, was passed in the house Thursday morning by a majority of 91 to 41.

Despite the fact that the resolution came to the house with a unanimously favorable report from the Western and Atlantic committee it precipitated a lively fight on the floor. The first evidence of opposition came from Mr. Blackburn, of Fulton, who contended that the state was in no condition to burden itself with an additional debt or bond issue, and that it would be useless for such an investigation to be made in the face of the present treasury deficit.

Barry Wright, of Floyd, came to the support of the resolution. The resolution, he declared, did not contemplate an immediate purchase of the road ordered sold by the United States court, but was introduced with a view to getting before general assembly all information on the subject that intelligent action eventually may be taken.

The commission will be appoint d within the next few days by the speak-

WOODWARD ENEMY TO SOCIETY, SAYS RECORDER BROYLES

Recorder Replies to Mayor's Charges of "Czar-Like" Police Court and Scores Him Severely

"KNOWS MUCH LAW AS HOG DOES ECONOMY," HE SAYS

The Judge Says, "Never Argue With an Ignorant Man, for You Can't Convince Him He's Wrong"

Recorder Nash R. Broyles, in replying to Mayor James G. Woodward's criticism of his heavy sentences, quotes the philosopher who says, "Do not argue with an ignorant man, for you can never convince him that he is wrong."

"While Woodward does not know as much about law as a hog does about political economy," the recorder remarked between the trial of cases Thursday morning, "I don't mind making a statement to put the facts before the public.

"This man Griff Freeman, whose sentence the mayor reduced until it was a negligible quantity, is the most notorious blind tiger now plying his trade in Atlanta. I had sentenced him to serve thirty days in the stockade and to pay a fine of $500. The case was carried to both of the higher courts, which sustained me. The evidence of his guilt was absolute.

"After the courts had sustained my sentence, Mayor Woodward comes along and reduces the man's fine by half, and then remits entirely the sentence of thirty days in the stockade.

"Now, this man, whom the mayor thinks should not serve in the stockade, has come before me again, and again the evidence against him is flawless.

"Five white men testified that they purchased whiskey from him, and one man declares that he has been buying liquor from Freeman for the past seven years.

"What are the courts for," asked the recorder, "if not to deal with men like Freeman, whose only business and occupation is the flagrant violation of the law?

"I must say that a man who blocks the courts in an effort to stop law violations of this and other similar criminals is an enemy to civilization and to society.

"Before Mayor Woodward reduced the Freeman sentence he called me over the telephone and asked my advice about the matter, and after I had given him the facts in the case he told me that he would not interfere."

The recorder in commenting upon the mayor's attitude, cited the case of Dr. Roper, who is now in the toils after having been once pardoned by the mayor.

Wednesday afternoon Judge Broyles bound Griffin over to the state courts under $1,000 bond in each of five cases and in a sixth case he sentenced him to serve twelve months in the stockade. Freeman has stayed the stockade sentence by making a $1,000 certiorari bond. He is now at liberty under a total bond of $6,000.

"I am not going to have the city stockade turned into a modern Siberia if I can help it," declared Mayor James G. Woodward Wednesday afternoon in commenting on the report that Griff Freeman, who had been sentenced Wednesday by Judge Broyles, had previously been pardoned by him.

The mayor asserted that he didn't pardon Freeman, but on the recommendation of two physicians, Dr. Hugh I. Battey and Dr. G. G. Hall, reduced his fine to $250 in order that he might pay it and leave the stockade, since he was physically unable to work.

The mayor, in the course of his statements about the case, characterized the methods of Judge Nash R. Broyles, recorder, as too severe and czarlike.

"Whenever it is proven to me that a prisoner deserves clemency, I will see that he gets it," the mayor added.

Griff Freeman, the blind tiger whose fine was previously reduced by the mayor, was again before recorder Wednesday and was fined heavily in several cases and bound over to the state courts under bonds aggegating $6,00.

Couple Arrested for Attempt to Carry Out Suicide Pact

NEW YORK, July 17.—Maurice Doherty, aged thirty, and his wife, aged twenty-eight, are in a hospital today technically under arrest charged with attempting to carry out a suicide pact. They had been married only a month. Doherty was formerly an attendant in the immigration hospital on Ellis Island and his wife, until recently, was supervising nurse in the Washington Heights hospital.

The two were found last night in a critical condition from poisoning in a room in a little East Side hotel. They left a note saying:

"No one but ourselves knows the reason, but it is compelling."

There is still some doubt that they will recover.

Wouldn't Some of This Go Fine in Atlanta Just Now?

(By Associated Press.)

CHICAGO, July 17.—A drop in temperature of 10 to 32 degrees at various points this morning brought relief from two days of heat in the middle west.

The greatest decrease in temperature reports came from Kansas, Iowa, Nebraska and Missouri.

Clay Center and Concordia, Kas., where the thermometer yesterday registered 112 and 110 degrees, today enjoyed temperatures of 82 and 80 degrees.

ROME, Ga., July 17.—Buddie Wright, a Negro, who evidently keeps a close eye on the market, was arrested yesterday charged with the theft of lemons and various other kinds of fruit from O. L. Stamps' fruit and vegetable warehouse.

Thur v Hottest Day of Month and Perhaps of the Year

At 1:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon the official thermometer of the weather bureau showed that the day was the hottest so far experienced this month and was likely to be the hottest seen in Atlanta this year.

The mercury had reached 95 degrees, but one degree below the record for this summer. 96 degrees, on June 17 and 18.

Th prediction at the weather bureau was that by early afternoon, generally the hottest part of the day, the mercury would equal the record mark of 96 and possibly would pass it.

Louisville Suffers From 100 Degrees in the Shade

LOUISVILLE, Ky., July 17.—This was the hottest day of the year in Louisville, the thermometer at the weather bureau at 1 o'clock registering 100 degrees, with prospects that this mark would be passed before nightfall.

a partner of Governor Slaton in Atlanta.

"It's a small world," said Captain Schindel, meeting a civilian whom he had seen last on top of Bud Dajo, the Philippine mountain upon which the United States troops exterminated some 1,600 Moros in 1905. Later he repeated the observation when he learned that Secretary Garrison's father was the minister who baptized him in Camden, N. J., and that he and the future secretary of war had lived within three or four doors of each other for a time during their boyhood.

BULGARS HEMMED IN BY RUMANIANS AND TURKS

Cannot Reach With Outside World Except Through Servia or Rumania

(By Associated Press.)

SOFIA, Bulgaria, July 17.—The Rumanians today took possession of the cable station at Varna, on the Black sea, and thus control communication with Sebastopol. As the railway between the coast and Sofia has been cut, Bulgaria cannot communicate with the outside world except through Servia and Rumania.

By forced marches the Turkish army is approaching the town of Kirk-Killiseh, taken by the Bulgarians after heavy fighting at the beginning of the Balkan war. Many of the population are reported to be fleeing.

An official dispatch reports the defeat by the Bulgarians of Servian forces which had penetrated Bulgarian territory on the western frontier. The Bulgarians attacked yesterday, dispersing the Servians, who are retreating toward Vlasina, across the border.

Another dispatch says severe losses have been inflicted on the Greek army operating on the Bulgarian left flank.

King Ferdinand today personally telegraphed King Charles of Rumania that Bulgaria was ready to negotiate terms of settlement with Rumania.

Efforts of A. Malinoff, democratic leader and former premier, to form a new cabinet thus far have been futile.

King Ferdinand Denies Reports of Atrocities

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, July 17.—King Ferdinand, of Bulgaria, denies emphatically the horrifying atrocities attributed in various quarters to the Bulgarian troops during their retreat before the Greek armies marching through Macedonia.

His majesty cabled the following message through the Bulgarian royal private secretariat today:

"Associated Press, New York.

"Sofia, July 17.—All the rumors about Bulgarian atrocities are infamous Greek calumnies, destined to poison universal public opinion and in regard to which the truth will be established one of these days.

SEATTLE'S GOLDEN POTLATCH IS BEGUN

SEATTLE, Wash., July 17.—The celebration of Seattle's summer festival, the Golden Potlatch, was begun last night. The Type of the Potlatch divided honors with the secretary of the navy, Josephus Daniels, who arrived from Washington at 8:30 o'clock and was escorted to a reviewing stand, past which filed the electric parade, the feature of the night. The Type arrived from the sea about dusk. In the electrical parade several thousand men dressed as Indians, were in line, and between the various groups came symbolical floats.

During the day many thousand persons visited the warships of the Pacific reserve fleet, under command of Admiral Reynolds, which lay at anchor in the harbor.

AMERICUS INFANTRY IS OFF FOR ENCAMPMENT

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

AMERICUS, Ga., July 17.—The Americus Light Infantry, fifty-five strong, under the command of Captain James Fort, will leave tonight for the state encampment at St. Simons as one of the commands of the Second regiment. The Columbus Guards join the Americus company here, both belonging to the Second regiment.

Mrs. John W. Taylor Dies

BOSTON, Ga., July 17.—Mrs. John W. Taylor, who was one of the oldest ladies of this town, was buried here Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Mrs. Taylor's death came after a continued spell of nervous trouble. She is survived by her husband, two sons, William H., of Boston and John W., Jr., of Birmingham, Ala; and five daughters, Mrs. Everett Daniels, of Moultrie; Mrs. Horn, of Fitzgerald; Mrs. S. W. Brooks, of Boston, and Misses Hester and Nellie M. Taylor, of Boston.

James S. and William S. Kuhn, Pittsburgh Bankers, Whose Business Concerns, Involving Over a Hundred Millions, Have Closed

William S. Kuhn. James S. Kuhn.

James S. and William S. Kuhn were in control of the First-Second National Bank of Pittsburgh, the First National Bank of McKeesport, and a bank at Amherst, Ohio, all of which have suspended payments. The First-Second National Bank of Pittsburgh, a recent consolidation of the First and Second National banks of the city, was closed by the controller of the currency, who did not believe that its condition warranted it in continuing business.

A run followed on the Bank for Savings, but officers said the institution had funds. Then a receiver for J. S. and W. S. Kuhn & Co., the private banking house controlled by the brothers, was appointed.

The American Water Works and Guarantee Company, the largest company in the country engaged in constructing and operating other water works companies, gas, electric light, heat and power concerns, irrigation plants, and electric interuban lines, which the Kuhns promoted, controls over forty such companies, whose securities aggregate $110,718,800, of which $92,128,800 consists of stocks of the subsidiaries held by the controlling company. The subsidiaries have a funded debt of $37,589,000. The controlling company itself has a capital stock of $10,000,000 common and $10,000,000 6 per cent. preferred.

Bankers have expressed the feeling that the simultaneous suspensions and receiverships would bring out unpleasant details regarding large schemes for financing under the hand of the Kuhns, particularly involving overextended financing of irrigation schemes, in which large volumes of capital were sunk by the bankers.

AVIATOR WHO FELL 1,600 FEET HAS RECOVERED

ROME, Ga., July 17.—Lieutenant John H. Towers, chief of the aviation corps of the United States navy, is here for a ninety days' furlough and is a guest of his mother, Mrs. W. M. Towers, on Eighth avenue. Lieutenant Towers apparently has recovered from his recent fall of 1,600 feet from a hydroplane into the waters of Chesapeake bay.

Some of Lieutenant Towers' local friends have urged him to quit the aviation corps, fearing that he might in future suffer a fatal accident, but he has announced his purpose of remaining in that branch of the service and continuing his flights unless transferred against his will to some other branch.

MOTORCYCLIST HURLED FROM SPEEDING MACHINE

COLUMBUS, Ga., July 17.—Ben F. Grant, aged 24, came near losing his life in a motorcycle accident last night, when he was hurled from his machine on the River road out a few miles north of the city and was fearfully lacerated about the face, his right eye being torn out of the socket and his entire body being badly bruised up. Grant is in the city hospital today, but physicians state that he will recover.

DESTROYER SPRINGS LEAK WHILE PLOUGHING SEA

NEW YORK, July 17.—The United States torpedo boat destroyer Fanning, arrived in the navy yard basin at Brooklyn early today with her after-crew compartment filled with water. The destroyer sprang a leak late last night while proceeding to sea.

She returned under her own steam. She was convoyed, however, by her sister boats, the Jenkins and the Jarvis, to guard against disaster in the fifty miles run back to the yard. The extent of the damage sustained or the exact nature of the accident had not been determined early today.

PROMINENT ATHENS MAN YIELDS TO LONG ILLNESS

ATHENS, Ga., July 17.—Archie Wingfield, aged fifty-two years, died last night at his home on Virginia avenue, after a long illness, not being able for the past five years to engage in business. He was a member of a prominent family and is survived by a wife and three children.

COLUMBUS, GA., MAY HAVE COMMISSION GOVERNMENT

New Charter Being Prepared for Passage by Present Legislature

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

COLUMBUS, Ga., July 17.—Columbus is to have commission government at an early date, according to members of the special committee which has just completed a draft of a special bill, which will be introduced in the legislature by representative Swift next week, the measure providing for the necessary amendment in the city charter, allowing the people of Columbus to vote on the question.

Once submitted to the people here, it is confidently believed that a change in the government will be made, there being practically no opposition to the movement since Mayor Chappell came out for a commission. Leaders of the movement are quite enthusiastic over the prospects for a chance to the more progressive business-like government, and members of the committee state that they are desirous of Columbus taking the lead in new plan of municipal rule in Georgia.

NEW ORLEANS POLICE AFTER "ARSON TRUST"

John G. Heinnick, Said to Be Brains of the Conspiracy, Arrested

(By Associated Press.)

NEW ORLEANS, July 17.—Efforts of the police to clear up the alleged "arson trust," which, according to the confession of the cab driver Albert Busha, has extended over a period of ten years and resulted in heavy loss, led to the arrest today at Rigolets of John G. Heinnick, said by Busha to be the "brains" of the conspiracy. Other arrests are expected.

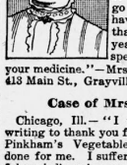
After being trapped by detectives, Busha gave out what he said was a detailed statement of the activities of those implicated with him. He said he worked at the direction of Heinnick and that Heinnick paid him for what he did. The specific crime for which Busha was arrested was setting fire to the home of Mrs. Henrietta Lafent, a sister-in-law of Heinnick. It is said the place was insured to the limit.

Heinnick was brought here immediately after his arrest and police officers questioned him.

WOMAN A GREAT SUFFERER

Tells How She Was Restored To Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Grayville, Ill.—"I was a great sufferer of female complaints for a year and I got nothing that helped me until I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I was irregular and had cramps so bad that I had to go to bed. Now I have better health than I have had for years and I cannot speak too highly of your medicine."—Mrs. JESSIE SCHAAR, 413 Main St., Grayville, Ill.



Case of Mrs. Tully.

Chicago, Ill.—"I take pleasure in writing to thank you for what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I suffered with such awful periodic pains, and had a displacement, and received no benefit from the doctors. I was advised to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and am now as well as ever."—Mrs. WILLIAM TULLY, 2952 Ogden Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman, and held in strict confidence.

Tuberculosis Invalids Celebrate Pact to Die By Eating Ice Cream

(By Associated Press.)

SAN JOSE, Cal., July 17.—After feeding Mrs. Olive J. Smith, eighty-six years old, a drug for seventy-two hours, and writing down the story of her lingering death, Stephen Mastick, a tuberculosis invalid, threw himself into a shallow lake at Monterey. The body of the woman was found yesterday and searchers later discovered Mastick's corpse in the lake.

Letters signed by the pair said that they had arranged a suicide pact and told of a celebration of their intentions in Monterey last Friday, when they had ice cream, pie and milk.

The woman had been supporting Mastick on a $12 monthly pension for several months. Mastick was twenty-nine years old.

COUNCIL DOESN'T WANT RECORDER'S POWER CUT

Proposition Comes From the Members of Fulton County Legislative Delegation

The proposition now pending in the legislature to curtail the power of the city recorder of Atlanta does not come from the general council of the city, which consists of thirty men, but from the legislative delegation of Fulton county, which consists of three men.

The general council after thoroughly discussing the question decided last year that the recorder should have power to impose a maximum fine of $500 and a maximum stockade sentence of sixty days, and accordingly recommended of a charter amendment to this effect, which the legislature passed and which is now in force.

This year, in making a revision of the entire city charter, the general council when it came to the subject of the recorder's power decided to make no change. In other words, it left the maximum fine of $500 and the maximum sentence at sixty days.

But the Fulton county delegation—consisting of R. B. Blackburn, John Y. Smith and R. O. Cochran—in introducing this revised charter took occasion to make various amendments, and one of the amendments consists in reducing the recorder's power from a fine of $500 to a fine of $200 and from a stockade sentence of sixty days to a stockade sentence of thirty days.

There is a precedent in the legislature that local delegations shall control in local matters, and, adhering to this precedent, the general judiciary committee No. 1 of the house has decided to report favorably on the amendments proposed by Messrs. Blackburn, Smith and Cochran.

COUNCIL OPPOSES CHANGE.

A committee of three—Alderman James R. Nutting, Councilman Claude C. Mason and City Attorney James L. Mayson—representing the general council, went before the judiciary committee Wednesday afternoon and urged the committee to report the charter just as council drew it.

They told the committee that council believes there should be no curtailment of the recorder's power, and argued that in a matter of this kind, where the city and not the county government is primarily involved, the recommendation of the general council of the city should have more weight than the individual opinions of the county representatives.

However, the judiciary committee seemed committed to the precedent stated above, and accordingly voted to report favorably on the amendments proposed by the Fulton county delegation.

OTHER AMENDMENTS.

Besides the amendment with reference to the recorder's power, the Fulton county delegation amended the charter by striking out the initiative, referendum and recall put there by council, and this amendment was likewise strongly opposed by the committee representing council.

But the Fulton county delegation have announced that they are unwilling for the initiative, referendum and recall to be recognized as a principle of government in Georgia—even to the extent of applying it to one city only—and the judiciary committee accordingly voted to recommend to the house that this portion of the charter be stricken out.

The salient features of the charter, as they have been allowed to stand by the Fulton county delegation, are as follows:

The Grady hospital board is abolished, and this institution, together with all other hospitals of the city and the Battle Hill tuberculosis sanitarium, are placed under the supervision and control of the board of health.

The board of firemasters, which is nothing more than a standing committee of council, is abolished, and the fire department is placed under the supervision and control of the police board, which shall be known as the board of public safety.

The construction department of the city, which is now administered by the sewer and street committees of council, is placed under the supervision and control of a new board to be known as the board of public works, and this board shall elect the head of the department, instead of this being elected by the people, as at present.

The general manager of the waterworks shall be elected by the waterworks board, instead of by the people, as at present.

The cemetery commission is abolished, and the city's cemeteries are placed under the supervision and control of the park board.

The sanitary tax is abolished, and the ad valorum tax rate is increased one-fourth of 1 per cent in order to make up for the sanitary tax.

The obsolete features of the charter are eliminated, all sections of the charter bearing on a particular subject are grouped under one head, and the charter is harmonized and brought up to date.

THEORY OF BOARD CHANGES.

The theory of the board changes as enumerated above is that responsibility for the administration of the various departments shall be fixed upon the boards in charge of the respective departments; that related departments shall be grouped together; and that all departments shall be administered by boards, instead of having some administered by boards and others by committees of council, as at present.

The charter is to be submitted to the people for ratification or rejection.

WHAT BROYLES SAYS.

Judge Nash R. Broyles, when asked for a statement on the effort in the legislature to curtail the power of the recorder, declared that personally he was not interested and would make no fight on the section in the proposed charter.

"I think, however," the recorder said, "that it will be a grave mistake to curtail the powers of the office in any way.

"As a matter of fact, the recorder cannot impose sentences severe enough to have any effect on many of the criminals of the city. This is shown by the fact that practically the same gang passes through this court time and time again during a year. The recorder can send them to the stockade for only 30 days. That is not long enough to do them any good, and it rids the community of them for such a very short time."

Judge Broyles declared that already the powers of the recorder in Atlanta are much more limited than the powers of the corresponding officials in other cities, and he cited Birmingham, Richmond and New Orleans as instances. The judge of the police court in those cities can sentence convicted persons for as long as 12 months.

HER FRIENDS PREDICT CAREER IN ART FOR THIS YOUNG LADY

MISS LOUISE MELLICHAMP.

ATLANTA GIRL WINS FAVOR AS ARTIST

Miss Louise Mellichamp Has Painted Many Scenes of Landscapes

Miss Louise Mellichamp, of 109 Forrest avenue, is young, pretty and charming. Her blonde, curly hair frames a pink-cheeked little face, and a pair of very blue eyes smile at one most attractively. She is just seventeen, but instead of being interested merely in wearing stylish clothes and having a good time, she is definitely planning a career—spelled with a capital, if you please, because Miss Mellichamp has already shown decided talent in art.

She has studied only in Atlanta, so far, but those who have watched her work are urging her to go to Chicago and later abroad to perfect her art.

She is just out of high school, and for one so young shows a decided gift. For three years she studied under Mr. Harry Osgood; and for the past two years she has been the pupil of Miss Virginia Woolley. Miss Woolley is most enthusiastic over her young pupil, and has interested herself to try to secure the chance for the young girl to study away from Atlanta.

"I have given her about all I can now," said Miss Woolley, "and it will be a shame if she is not able to pursue her studies further."

Miss Mellichamp smiled a pretty dimpling smile, when asked about her work.

"Oh," she said, "I've been drawing since I can remember, but only since I was twelve have I been taking lessons. I love painting, and surely I shall study further."

During the past two weeks Miss Woolley had about ten girls up in the mountains to sketch and paint. Miss Mellichamp being one of them. She was so delighted at the chance to paint the beautiful mountain views that she was up as early as 4 o'clock many mornings to catch the sunrise on the mountains. As a result she has brought back a dozen landscapes in oil, each one of which shows a splendid touch, much life and beautiful coloring. One in particular, the interior of an old barn, through whose open door are seen the distant trees and sky, attracts instant attention because of the skillful handling of the subject. Another shows a little mountain stream brawling its way downward between close growing green trees. This is very attractive, and shows the same vital spirit as the others.

Miss Mellichamp's pictures, with some of Miss Woolley's other pupils', will be exhibited in the window of the Cole Book company Saturday and the week following, and they will be of much interest, because they represent what has been accomplished by Atlanta talent.

LITTMAN DECLINES TO RE-ENLIST IN GUARD

NEW YORK, July 17.—Samuel Littmann, whom Governor Sulzer offered an opportunity to re-enlist in Company B of the Forty-seventh regiment, national guard of New York, a Brooklyn militia unit, said today through counsel that he had decided not to accept. The governor told Littmann, who failed of election as second lieutenant of Company B because he was a Jew, that a special election would be held, if Littmann should re-enlist, and that the company would be disbanded if discrimination against Littmann was shown.

A board of inquiry recently found that Littmann was discriminated against on account of race prejudice.

SAYS LAWLESS ELEMENT INSTIGATED FORD'S BILL

J. C. Walters Opposes Removal of Dougherty to Southwestern Circuit

Action by the general judiciary committee of the state senate on the bill of Senator L. L. Ford, of the Tenth, changing Dougherty county from the Albany circuit was deferred Wednesday afternoon by that committee until Friday of next week.

This postponement followed the appearance before the committee of Colonel J. C. Walters, of Albany, with charges that the bill was authorized directly by the liquor interests of Dougherty county and was aimed to hit Judge Frank Park, of the Albany circuit, who, Colonel Walters said, had put the lid on so tight in Dougherty that the whiskey people were determined to get rid of him.

Judge Park was present and spoke before the committee, as did J. H. Tipton, of Worth county, and E. E. Cox, of Mitchell county.

Senator Ford was directly asked by these men who authorized him to present the bill. He replied that he was not at liberty to say but that if the bill was laid on the table until Friday week his constituents would appear before the committee and speak for themselves. The opponents of the measure agreed to such action and the committee voted to do so.

Colonel Walters, Mr. Tipton and Mr. Cox made sensational charges in their speech against Ittehill.

"When we heard that such a bill had been introduced," said Colonel Walters, "it came on a great surprise to the people of Dougherty county, and after making inquiries as to who authorized it we found that it originated with only three men. As a consequence I have here the report of the grand jury of Dougherty county to the effect that the bill was not authorized with its knowledge. I have also a petition signed by 500 or 600 of the leading business men of Albany and a petition signed by the good women of Dougherty county protesting against the passage of the bill."

So saying, Colonel Walters presented his petitions to the committee.

The colonel then declared that the bill was instigated by the opponents of Judge Park.

When Judge Park came on the bench, he said, "conditions in Dougherty county were fearful. It was overrun with blind tigers, gamblers and disorderly houses. The judge made a great effort to enforce the law and has succeeded to a certain extent. As a result he has brought down the wrath of the lawless element of Dougherty county on his head. He discharged the county commissioners and the jury commissioners, and stood for a rigid enforcement of the law. The leaders of the reformation movement got together just before the legislature convened and agreed that no bill should be introduced which would affect Judge Park's administration. I do not know who was the author of the bill but I do know that it originated with the lawless element of the county."

Colonel Walters went on to pay a high tribute to Judge Park and to beg the committee that he be allowed to retain jurisdiction over Dougherty county.

HEAVY GUARD PROTECTS NEGRO FROM ANGRY MOB

CHARLESTON, W. Va., July 17.—While a heavy armed party of men were searching the outer portion of the city for Campbell Clark, a negro charged with attempting to assault a young white woman, the negro was arrested in the heart of the city last night. He was locked in the county jail. A crowd that later surrounded the jail was quickly dispersed and the prisoner put under heavy guard.

BIJOU—Tabloid Musical Comedy.

Britt Wood, the eccentric comedian, is easily the hit of the program being presented this week at the Forsyth. He is quaint and altogether original.

Valere Bergere and her company present the dramatic sketch "Judgment." Miss Bergere is a talented actress, and is splendidly supported.

The Metropolitan minstrels are very popular.

Next week's program promises to be of more than ordinary interest in that it is headed by John F. Conroy, the famous life saver, and his two charming diving models. The Great Lester, the ventriloquist, and Delro, the piano-accordeonist, are on this bill.

The Grand's motion pictures are becoming more popular every day. During this week the management is presenting high-class standard first-run motion pictures, with a change of program every day.

Commencing with Monday, Victor Hugo's wonderful novel, "Les Miserables" will be presented in nine reels.

Bijou patrons are finding this week's attraction, "Hotel a la Carte," one of the best that has been offered since the Little Marietta Street theatre went into musical comedy seven weeks ago. There is plenty of life and ginger in the performance, the musical numbers are new and well rendered and the comedy is in clever hands. Joe Scott, who plays the part of the bell boy is assisted by Miss Mamie Elmore as Flossie Spearmind, the actress. Walter Welheiser plays the part of Heinie Schultz, the barber, and Gordon Newan plays as Percy Uno. The usual daily matinee at 3 o'clock and night performances at 7:30 and 9.

GOVERNOR ASKED TO PICK TOTS FOR EXPOSITION

"Excuse Me," Says Mr. Slaton and Refuses to Make Choice

I. Wasserkrug, who is in the city in the interest of the 1915 Panama-Pacific International exposition, to appoint an official photographer for the exposition from the children of the Atlanta babies, announces that the appointment has been made, and that the state, county and city officials will be called on by the exposition in a short time to select 200 Atlanta tots whose pictures will adorn the Temple of Childhood in San Francisco.

Wesley Hirschburg has been made the official photographer and he will work in cooperation with Lewis D. Phillips, the special baby artist, in making the pictures for the exposition.

Mr. Wasserkrug called on Governor Slaton Wednesday morning in an effort to have him select a few babies, but Governor Slaton said that to be limited to only 200 in his selection was too much to ask of any man, and that he must be excused.

ROME PREACHERS FAVOR BIBLE READ IN SCHOOLS

ROME, Ga., July 17.—The majority of the ministers of Rome favor the bill providing for compulsory reading of the Bible in public schools of the state, and have so stated in public interviews. Several are proposing to preach on this topic next Sunday. Dissenters from this view are the Rev. C. K. Henderson, pastor of the Second Avenue Methodist church, and Rev. George F. Cuthrell, pastor of the First Christian church.

NEW COUNTY OF BARROW FAVORED BY COMMITTEE

By Vote of 8 to 3 It Is Recommended to the Senate

The house bill creating the county of Barrow was favorably recommended by the senate committee on constitutional amendments Wednesday afternoon, after a hearing in the senate chamber which lasted nearly two hours.

The supporters of the measure were represented by W. H. Toole, of Winder, while those who spoke for the opposition were Judge "Dick" Russell, J. C. Turner, John Nunnally and others.

The senate chamber was packed from floor to gallery, and at one time during Judge Russell's speech the applause grew so wild that the chairman threatened to clear the hall.

After each side had argued for forty-five minutes, the committee went into executive session and, by a vote of 8 to 3, decided to favor the new county. Those who voted for the measure were Senators Bush, DuBose, Elkins, Hixon, Kea, Kelley, Pharr, Ford and Sweat; those against it, Senators Burtz, Spinks and Tyson.

NEGRO TRIES BURGLARY; IS PROMPTLY CAUGHT

County Police Go Ten Miles in Twenty Minutes to Womans' Rescue

Mrs. M. G. Moffitt, who lives in Center Hill, near the Mayson and Turner's road, was awakened about 3 o'clock Thursday morning, when a negro raised the blind of a window and peered into her room.

The moon was shining brightly, and Mrs. Moffitt clearly saw the negro's face. Immediately she screamed in terror, and the negro fled.

So frightened was Mrs. Moffitt, who was alone in the house with three small children, that she ran, screaming, to the streets and calling to her neighbors.

The neighborhood was aroused and a posse organized. Before it could commence a search County Policeman C. C. Heard and J. T. Carter arrived, having made a ten-mile trip on their new motorcycles in twenty minutes.

Mrs. Moffitt recognized the negro as Leonard Smalley, who resided only a half mile from her home. The county officers rushed to the negro's house and placed him under arrest just as he was making a change of his clothes, presumably in order that he might leave.

Officer Heard put his prisoner behind him on the motorcycle and took him to the jail, as a threatening crowd advanced on the negro.

A charge of attempted burglary has been lodged against Smalley.

CHARLES D'ALVIGNEY SUES DR. L. C. FISCHER

Charles D'Alvigney, a city paving inspector, in a suit for $10,000 damages filed in the superior court on Wednesday afternoon, alleges that Dr. L. C. Fischer, a prominent Atlanta physician, deliberately ran over him with an automobile, inflicting serious injuries.

D'Alvigney was supervising work on DeKalb avenue on June 26, he asserts, when the physician approached in his automobile.

He stepped forward and told him that the street was closed on account of repairs, the inspector declares, and then Dr. Fischer deliberately ran his car over him, knocking him down and dragging him for fifty feet.

This is, therefore, to notify all concerned to file their objections, if any they have, on or before the first Monday in August next, else leave will then be granted said applicant as applied for.

EFFORT BEING MADE TO INDICT NEGRO CONLEY

Foreman Beattie of Grand Jury, However, Says He Knows of No Such Move

W. D. Beattie, foreman of the grand jury, declares that "so far as he knows" there is no intention on the part of the grand jury to consider an indictment of Jim Conley, the negro sweeper, who figures so prominently in the Phagan murder mystery.

The Journal has learned, however, on excellent authority, that a determined effort is being made to have the Conley case passed upon by the present grand jury. Whether the effort will or will not be futile is a matter of conjecture.

Foreman Beattie states that no meeting of the jury is expected during the present week, but that the body will probably be called together early next week to consider matters of a routine nature.

Solicitor General Hugh M. Dorsey is said to be making every effort to block the proposed indictment of Conley, who will be used as the principal witness against Leo M. Frank when he faces a jury probably a week from next Monday.

The present grand jury has not been called together since its organization several weeks ago, but it is known that a number of its members think that, despite the attitude of the solicitor, a meeting should be called, and the evidence against Conley, including his confessions of complicity, submitted for the jury's consideration.

It is said that the indictment of Conley as a principal would seriously injure the state's case against Frank, and Solicitor Dorsey is naturally opposing every move in that direction.

CERTAIN TO CONSIDER CASE.

The present grand jury was organized early in July, but, since the organization meeting, its members have never been called together. In the past the majority of grand juries have met weekly.

Further still it is known that the present grand jury will hold no meeting unless the call originates with the members, and if it does it is practically certain that the Conley matter will be considered.

Should the grand jury meet and indict the negro sweeper over the direct and vigorous protest of the solicitor, it will break a long established precedent in the county. While the grand jury has full authority, without even consulting the solicitor, to call a meeting and indict the negro, the solicitor general's wishes in regard to criminal cases have been respected in the past.

However, there is said to be such a sentiment in the grand jury that its members should consider the Conley case that the calling of a special meeting for that purpose is a strong probability.

SUFFICIENT EVIDENCE.

A very significant point, showing the solicitor's attitude is the fact that he has not called a meeting of the jury and is not expected to call one until after the Frank case has been called for trial.

Following the trial of the Frank case, the indictment of Conley either as anaccessory or as a principal is certain. After the Frank trial the solicitor himself will present the case against the negro to the grand jury.

There is no question about the fact that there is now sufficient evidence against Conley for the grand jury to indict him. It can be shown that he was in the factory on the day Mary Phagan was killed, and his admissions of complicity to the detectives and his alleged admission of the crime to W. H. Mincey would be sufficient to warrant a bill.

FREE ORGAN RECITAL ON THURSDAY EVENING

The following program is announced for the free classical organ recital which will be given Thursday evening at the auditorium-armory by Dr. Percy J. Starnes under auspices of the Music Festival association:

Wilor. Selections from Organ Symphony No. 6.

Mendelssohn. Variations Serieuses.

Lisst. Evocation a la Chapelle Sistine.

Hayden. Introduction and Allegro from Symphony in D., No. 7.

At a second classical recital, the date of which will be announced next week, Dr. Starnes will play great Symphonic Pathetique of Tschaikowsky in its entirety.

Bankruptcy Petitions

Two voluntary bankruptcy petitions were filed Thursday. One was by Robert Lee Pylant, a grocer, with liabilities of $1,102 and assets of $1,358, and the other was by Irwin W. Wilson, Sr., a machinist, with liabilities of $770.50 and $200 of assets.

GEORGIA AND HER POLITICS

Bills to Improve Prison System Stand Fair Chance to Become Laws.

Long-desired improvements in penal criminal court conditions of Georgia will be brought about if three measures now pending before the general assembly are enacted into law. Two of these have been recommended for passage by the committees to which they were referred and the third is still under consideration by a committee.

The bill introduced by Representatives Mills, of Butts, and Jones, of Coweta, provides for the establishment of a home for wayward girls. It has received a favorable recommendation at the hands of the penitentiary committee, but owing to the fact that it carries an appropriation it has been recommitted to the appropriations committee.

A second bill, introduced in the house by Representatives Myrick, of Chatham, and Gower, of Crisp, and in the senate by Senator Tarver, legalizes suspension of sentence by criminal court judges, with proper safeguards, and provides for the appointment of probation officers. These bills have been favorably reported by the judiciary committees of both house and senate.

The third measure, introduced in the senate by Senator Foster and in the house by Representative Lloyd, of Newton, enlarges the powers and responsibilities of the prison commission. It provides for jail inspection by the commission, for indeterminate sentences, for an apportionment of fines, so that if a prisoner has served part of his sentence the work be deducted, and authorizes the commission to fix the salaries of wardens. This measure is now pending before the penitentiary committees and will doubtless be recommended for passage.

Lack of Accomplishment Makes General Assembly Up to Date.

So far the present session of the general assembly has been an uneventful and rather uninteresting one. Half of the session—lacking two days—has passed, and there have been no prohibition debates in either house. The woman's lawyer bill, another one of the old familiar subjects, which in times past has furnished good copy, has never been reported out of the committee. And the same is true of the biennial sessions bill.

New county movements have attracted the municipal attention of both house and senate. The prospects for the enactment of important legislation are rapidly diminishing, and unless added steam is taken on by the general assembly the present session will go down in history as one of the most unproductive.

The hope has been entertained throughout the state that the legislature would do something looking to a genuine reform in the state's tax system. If this could be accomplished the fifty days spent in law-making would not have been in vain. However, the leaders in both the house and senate appear to be hopelessly split on this question, and unless Governor Slaton takes a hand there is little likelihood that anything worth while will be done in this direction.

Already there is persistent talk that the governor should notify the legislature that if it fails to provide for the finalization of taxes during the regular session he will call a special session for that purpose. The governor, apparently, does not take kindly to the special session idea. He indulges the hope that something substantial in the way of tax reform can be accomplished before the end of the present session. It is pretty generally agreed, however, that unless he exercises a guiding influence there is little chance for a reconciliation of the diverging views of the leaders in both houses.

South Georgia Sure to Become Great Cattle Raising Section.

Judge S. W. Smith, ordinary of Dougherty county for 22 years and one of the widely-acquainted men of South Georgia, declares that section is destined to become one of the greatest cattle-raising centers in the United States.

According to Judge Smith, Armour & Co., the big Chicago packers, are now negotiating for 10,000 acres of land near Albany with a view to establishing thereon a cattle and hog ranch. He says that quit recently Miller Brothers, owners of the famous "101 Ranch," have bought and shipped from South Georgia 125 carloads of cattle for which they paid an average price of ten dollars a head and which they have taken to their western ranches.

Judge Smith was in Atlanta a few days ago in the interest of the Clarke bill, which provides compensation for ordinaries who collect near-beer taxes for the state. Last year Judge Smith collected $14,900 in these taxes, for which he received no compensation.

McCrory Will Get Through His Schoolbook Investigation Resolution.

There is little room for doubt that Representative McCrory will be successful in getting through his resolution providing for an investigation of the cost and character of schoolbooks used in the public schools of the state.

After a commendable fight before the house committee on education Mr. McCrory has obtained a favorable report on his resolution, which has for its object the creation of a schoolbook commission composed of three members of the house, two members of the senate and with the governor and superintendent of schools as ex-officio members.

It will be the duty of this commission to ascertain the feasibility of the state compiling and printing its own schoolbooks, which Representative McCrory declares will result in greater satisfaction and in a tremendous saving to those who pay for the schoolbooks.

Efforts to place members of the state school board upon the commission were defeated in the committee.

Judge Mose Wright is Hot After the Lawbreakers in Floyd County.

Judge Mose Wright, who recently appointed to preside over the courts of the Rome circuit, delivered a strong and impressive charge to the Floyd county grand jury on Monday. He declared that the locker clubs of Rome should be investigated, that the county jail is unsanitary and unfit for the vilest criminal to occupy, and that money lenders who charge exorbitant rates of interest should be prosecuted.

In making his charge Judge Wright took occasion to commend the bill now pending before the legislature which if passed will give the judges great discretion in sentencing prisoners. He expressed the opinion that the humane side should be considered and that there are frequent instances when offenders should be put upon probation.

Several Georgia Cities to Seek Commission Government Charters.

A number of local bills providing commission government charters for Georgia cities will be considered by the general assembly at its present session. Some of these bills have already been introduced and referred to committees.

Among the cities which it is said will apply for commission government charters are: Augusta, Columbus, Rome, Athens, Dalton and West Point.

The city of Atlanta has applied for a revised charter which contains provision for the initiative, referendum and recall, but owing to the fact that the Fulton county representatives are opposed to these features the fate of the charter is doubtful.

One of the really strong men in the Georgia legislature is Senator Otis H. Elkins, of the Fifteenth district, a well-known lawyer of Fitzgerald.

Senator Elkins is a very modest man but thoroughly progressive in thought and action. He is the author of a bill providing for the establishment of a state bureau of vital statistics, another for certain constructive changes in court rules and procedure and several other measures.

The senator is a member of the senate judiciary committee. He is a close student, an indefatigable worker and a good mixer. He has two hobbies—bulldogs and the binomial theorem. His favorite sport is mountain climbing.

Moultrie Observer Takes a Rap at Georgia's General Assembly.

Many kind and unkind things have been uttered for and against the Georgia lawmakers, but perhaps the "most unkindest cut of all" is the following editorial observation by the Moultrie Observer:

"Every time the legislature holds a session the people's interests are put in jeopardy."

Agricultural Address

Addressing the Morgan County Farmers' institute at Madison Wednesday Assistant Commissioner of Agriculture Dan Hughes took for his subject "Farms and Farm Homes." He urged that the farmers build attractive homes for their white tenants and assist them in acquiring farms of their own.

DELAMETER VISITS WIFE AND GETS LOCKED UP

As He Left the House Someone Beat Him Up, He Says

Dr. Ira Delameter, who has figured in a number of court cases because of his difficulties with his wife, was again arrested Wednesday night on the charge of disorderly conduct, remained in jail until Thursday morning.

The arrest followed a visit to Mrs. Delameter at her home at 68 Currie street, the visit being in violation of a superior court order restraining him from going to his wife's home.

Dr. Delameter declares that he went to see Mrs. Delameter so try to effect a reconciliation, but that his wife became angry and went over to a neighbor's house. He says when he left her house some man jumped on him and beat him up.

When he was released Thursday morning, his attorney, Carl Hutcheson, having arranged bond, he went to a doctor to have his bruises attended to. His left eye is closed, no one of the bones in his face is broken, while the right eye is also discolored.

The trial takes place at 2:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon in Judge Broyles' court, and Mrs. Delameter and Mrs. Ira Delameter, Jr., have been summoned as witnesses.

HOLINESS CAMP MEETING WILL OPEN ON AUGUST 7

For entertainment communicate with Mrs. H. P. Myers, Flovilla, Ga., care camp ground.

SEARCH FOR JOE NORTH ENDS IN HIS ARREST

Joe North, for whom the police have been looking for the last few days, was arrested Wednesday afternoon on Peters and Fair streets.

Several nights ago the police raided a house on the corner of ePters and Fair streets. North was in the house, but escaped. A man and two girls were caught and bound over. A third girl, Effie Drummond, was sent to Martha's home. The Drummond girl alleges that she was lured to the house by North under promise of marriage, and that when he got her there he threatened to kill her if she tried to escape. She will testify in court against North Thursday afternoon.

AFTER MANY BURGLARIES POLIC EHAVE A SUSPECT

For the past few weeks hardly a night has passed without a drug store robbery being reported to the police, who up to now have not been able to do much against the culprits.

Wednesday, however a negro, Fred Williams, was found on Peters street with his pockets stuffed with drug store articles. He was taken into custody and the police believe they can trace some of the other thefts through him.

DENIES DUNCAN FAMILY WERE CHLOROFORMED

Miss Pearl Hildebrand Says Newspaper Reports Have Been Exaggerated

That the newspaper accounts of the invasion of 315 South Boulevard Tuesday night by some unknown person (for a purpose not yet discovered) have exaggerated the truth and that there is no reason or foundation for the general theory that the members of Mrs. A. D. Duncan's household were chloroformed as they slept, is the statement of Miss Pearl Hildebrand, one of the occupants of the house.

Miss Hildebrand declared to The Journal Thursday that undoubtedly as her self was struck by the intruder, whoever he was; but that she did not know how, why or when she was struck, and that except for the marks upon her forehead she would have no evidence of it. The detectives had the word of Dr. Charles Ivah, 311 South Boulevard, that the marks on Miss Hildebrand's forehead were left there apparently by a blow from a closed fist or from some soft bludgeon.

"This chloroforming talk is pure nonsense," asserted Miss Hildebrand. It originated, she said, in the surmise of neighbors that the occupants of the house must have been chloroformed in as much as none of them heard the intruder in the house.

The detective department, represented by Detectives Chewning and Davis, is working on the theory not only that the occupants of the house were chloroformed but that the motive of the intruder was kidnaping, the object of his quest being little three-year-old Margaret Deal, daughter of Mrs. Ruby Deal. Mrs. Deal and her sister, Miss Hildebrand, were sleeping in the same room with the little girl on the night when the strange affair occurred.

MEXIC PLOT TO DYNAMITE OFFICE OF AMERICAN ENVOY SEND SHIM TO U. S.

billion and of a censure upon the provisional government.

TESTS FOR PETITION.

Among the tests which would be applied in considering the merit of Carranza's petition would be whether an actual de facto political organization existed among the insurgents sufficient to constitute it, if left to itself, a political entity, capable of discharging the duties and obligations of a state among nations.

If the Carranza government should receive recognition as belligerent, the Huerta government would be absolved from satisfying further claims made by Americans for losses in the country controlled by the constitutionalists.

Just which foreign power had inquired for a definition of this government's attitude in the present situation still was unknown officially today, though reports in official circles mentioned Great Britain and France. The denial from Berlin that Germany had made representation was generally accepted as removing that county from the list. The report that the situation had been discussed by representatives of the powers in Paris yesterday seemed to strengthen the belief that France was interested.

FRENCH INTERESTS HEAVY.

It was pointed out that the French have heavy interests in Mexico. French interests are said to control the Mexican National bank, the Banco Central, and other large financial institutions, and French investors are said to have heavy holdings of Mexican railroad securities.

Great Britain's interests are said to be principally in the National railways and in mining. Germany's interests are said to lie largely in agricultural and nation-wide hardware business.

While American losses are believed to have been greatest in the revolutions, English losses also have been heavy through destruction of railroad property. French losses, it is said, have been largely so-called speculative losses, that is, losses of what would have been profits had a series of revolutions depressed business.

OFFICIAL SILENCE UNBROKEN.

Both the White House and the state department continued to observe strict official silence on the situation, the president and Secretary Bryan evidently awaiting first hand reports from Ambassador Wilson, who is expected here about July 23.

From official quarters, however, it was learned that the state department has been informed that the anti-American demonstrations in Mexico City were entirely artificial and stimulated because of the lack of run of the Huerta government and for the purpose of demonstrating the power of the provisional government to control them.

Battleship South Carolina Watches Mexican Situation

(By Associated Press.)

GALVESTON, Texas, July 17.—The United States battleship South Carolina, which has been watching the Mexican situation for several months, will arrive off the Galveston bar, from Tampico, Mexico, at 4 o'clock this afternoon, according to official wireless advices received here today. The South Carolina will remain several weeks, it is said.

Will Recognize Huerta, Mexic Newspapers Say

(By Associated Press.)

MEXICO CITY, July 17.—All the newspapers here, having been cautioned by a government official to treat the trip of Ambassador Henry Lane Wilson to Washington carefully and conservatively, confine themselves today to local stories and speculation that his going probably means early recognition of the Huerta administration by the United States. They profess to believe that a successor to Mr. Wilson will be named immediately and that in this way recognition will be achieved.

El Pais is the only newspaper to display bitterness. It confines itself chiefly to attacking Ambassador Wilson and characterizing him as an enemy of the Mexican government. It ridicules the idea of war, saying that Mexicans no longer are afraid.

Revolutionists Control Northern Part of San Luis

Say German Government Plans for Intervention

(By Associated Press.)

MOBILE, Ala., July 17.—Cotton buyers in this city, representing German firms, are today in receipt of code messages from Germany stating that if the United States fails to interfere to bring about peace in Mexico the German government will take the initiative to this end. The matter was a subject of general discussion on the Mobile cotton exchange today.

HOUSE ASKS COMMITTEE ON A. B. & A PROPOSITION

er of the house and the president of the senate.

DULL DAY IN SENATE.

Almost the entire time of Thursday morning's session of the state senate was consumed in passing on the report of the rules committee as presented by Chairman Randolph Anderson. The changes suggested were few and all were adopted. One was to allow each senator five minutes in which to explain his vote, and another was to appoint a regular time for the senate sessions from 10 a. m. to 1 p. m.

No bills were introduced and none passed. The bill providing that free kindergartens be established in connection with Georgia's public school system and the bill of Senator Sweat on compulsory education will come up at 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon for a hearing before the education committee. This committee will grant a special hearing at 9 o'clock Friday morning on the bill requiring the reading of the Bible in the public schools.

AND IN THE THIRD ROOM HE FOUND GUM

He was strolling leisurely along Washington street when he noticed the door at number 119 wide open. It was too big a temptation to this burglar so he walked in. In the first room was one G. S. Shivers who did not live up to his name but slumbered on, the burglar found a watch to his taste and went into the next room. Oliver Tierce slept here much to his later sorrow and another watch fell to the burglar. Having plenty of time, and finding the door open our Raffles enters the third room. His night's percentage suffered a slump however for the best he got was 80 cents in change and two packages of gum.

FARMERS AND LABORITES TO GET CLOSER TOGETHER

Meeting in Waycross Saturday to Bring About Relations

-- movement to bring the Georgia division of the Farmers' union into closer sympathy and relationship with the Georgia Federation of Labor will be launched at a meeting to be held in Waycross Saturday.

This meeting will be attended by President S. B. Marks and Secretary Robert Fechner, of the Georgia Federation of Labor, and James Cowart, president of the Ware County Farmers' union. P. A. Morton, ex-vice president of the Georgia Federation of Labor, will also participate in the conference.

President Marks says a joint meeting of the executive board of the Farmers' union and the executive board of the State Federation of Labor will be called at an early date to plan for bringing about close co-operation throughout the state and adopting a basis upon which a national agreement may be effected.

SAVANNAH MAYOR DOESN'T BELIEVE IN PRE-DRAWING

SAVANNAH, Ga., July 17.—Mayor R. J. Davant, who believes in running a city just as a big corporation is run, has thrown a large size lump of gloom into the city hall by announcing that there must be no salaries drawn in advance by city employes who want to go on their vacations. Such a procedure has been unheard of heretofore.

The mayor stopped due bills about the first day of his administration. He says that a man who gets paid twice a week as city employes do shouldn't have any trouble in getting along without getting money before it is earned.

The funeral services will be held at the residence, Nelson street Friday afternon at 3:30 o'clock. The interment will be at Oakland cemetery.

SMITH URGED TO REMAIN IN COUNCIL

Several petitions requesting Charles Whiteford Smith to run again for council as his own successor from the Ninth ward, are being circulated among the voters in that ward.

A. R. King and other friends of the councilman are taking this active step in his behalf. "The undersigned, feeling that such a man as yourself should not at this time be permitted to leave the city council, and that your services will be greatly needed in this city government for the next two years, earnestly request you to announce your candidacy to succeed yourself in the general council and pledge you our hearty support," the petition reads.

TY COBB IS REINSTATED; STAHL "CAN" TO STAND

Ban Johnson Regrets "Canning" of Boston Manager, but Hands Are Tied

(By Associated Press.)

DETROIT, Mich., July 17.—President Johnson, of the American league, will not interfere in the release of Jake Stahl by Boston, but he personally will decide the question raised by the recent trade between the New York and Chicago American league clubs involving Hal Chase, Rollie Zeider and Borton.

"Although I deeply regret McAleer's action in releasing Stahl as manager after Stahl had accomplished so much with the Boston club, there is not anything I could do about it if I wanted to," Johnson said.

It will not be necessary to take the questions involved in the New York-Chicago trade before the national commission, according to President Johnson. "As soon as I get the official report of the whole affair, I'll take care of the matter myself," he said.

Johnson announced that Ty Cobb, suspended recently for an argument with Umpire Hilderbrand, will be back in the game tomorrow.

COMPULSORY EDUCATION BILL IS RECOMMENDED

A compulsory education bill, similar in many respects to the bill introduced in the senate by Senator J. L. Sweat, of the Fifth district, but embracing certain features from the several other bills introduced in the house, was given favorable action Thursday by the house committee on education. This bill will probably be reported to the house on Wednesday.

Police Searching For Marie Hart, Weight 327 Lbs.

(By Associated Press.)

GALESBURG, Ill., July 17.—What has become of Marie Hart, Galesburg's 327-pound school girl?

This question worried Galesburg police and relatives of the girl today. Although difficult to believe, information developed by the police led to the conclusion that she was kidnaped.

Marie left home last night, telling her folks she was going to the "movies." She was not home by midnight, so her relatives, neighbors and most of the local police force searched all night fr her.

It is believed the girl was spirited away by show people who wanted her fo rexhibition purposes. She is sixteen years old.

PIKE TAX COLLECTOR SUMMONED BY DEATH

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

BARNESVILLE, Ga., July 17.—E. R. Carswell, tax collector of Pike county, died last night at a private sanitarium in Atlanta. He was quite popular here and was one of the most useful citizens of the community. He is survived by his wife, three sons and two daughters.

His death makes it necessary to hold an election for tax collector in Pike county.

MOULTRIE FREIGHT DEPOT BURNS AGAIN

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

MOULTRIE, Ga., July 17.—Fire destroyed the Georgia Northern freight depot at an early hour this morning. The loss is estimated at $12,000. The freight depot was a new one and replaced the Terminal building which was destroyed by fire a year ago. It is the third time in recent years that the road has lost its terminal property by fire, important records being destroyed each time.

ATLANTA NEW YORK PARIS

Now for the Once-In-A-Year Event

The Half-Price Sale

Of Our Richest and Finest Embroideries

Flouncings, Bands and Points of Rare Beauty All Included

The Selling Starts at Nine o'Clock

Draw a ring around tomorrow!

It is once-in-a-year day for buying embroideries---the day of the Chamberlin-Johnson-DuBose Co.'s disposal of their choicest imported embroideries.

The ranking embroidery event that Atlanta knows!

It is not surprising that we should hold such a sale. A clearaway at this season. It is quite logical that we should dispose of all these embroideries while they are still fresh, that when the next season starts, we shall start with entirely new stocks. You expect that of us. But it is surprising and out of the ordinary that we should have the temerity to go at the disposal in such a determined fashion---by halving prices.

Therein lies one difference between this and many embroidery sales; another is the embroideries themselves. They are those exquisite affairs that the women of Atlanta naturally turn to Chamberlin-Johnson-DuBose Co. for at regular prices, ranking among the most beautiful that come from Switzerland.

Fabrics as soft and sheer as looms can spin them, embroidered in amazing patterns at one time as lacy as gossamer, again heavy, rich, gorgeous.

Some of them are even hand-embroidered,

There are flouncings, 45 inches wide that were $3.50 to $17.50 a yard.

There are bands 4 to 10 inches wide that were $3.50 to $12 a yard.

There are embroidery points---to match the flouncings and the bands---that were $3.50 to $12.00 a yard.

Mulls, Crepes, Voiles, Batistes mostly---and you will get a new idea of how sheer a fabric can be woven once you see these---and linens.

A few tans and blues, mostly white.

Half-price.

Why, it will pay women to buy for next spring!

And doubtless many will, once they see the rare beauty of the embroideries.

Art Goods are Priced for Friday

Women who do art needlework will do well to take advantage of these prices made for Friday. Every one means a saving, and the thrifty woman will see that Friday will be a happy time to supply herself for all the embroidering that she can do for some months to come.

Simply told, here are the savings.

Chief Justice White and a Fallacious Cotton Tax.

The New York Evening Post seasonably calls attention to the interesting fact that the fallacy and injustice of such a tax as the Senate is now asked to impose on contracts for future delivery of cotton were laid bare twenty-one years ago by a Southern senator, who is now chief justice of the United States Supreme court. In 1892 a similar scheme to tax futures and options in cotton, wheat and other commodities and to do so under the cover of tariff legislation was vigorously opposed by Senator Edward D. White, of Louisiana, as his title then was, who condemned the proposed measure as contrary to the Constitution and also as a menace to a great field of legitimate business and agricultural interests. And it was owing largely to his cogent analysis of the fraud and the peril of such a tax that it was defeated.

"His Constitutional argument twenty-one years ago," says the Post, "went to several points. The tax was discriminatory. It singled out certain products and omitted others (an injustice even more apparent in the tax now proposed.) Furthermore, it was pointed out by Senator, now Judge, White that the tax would be upon a form of contract which the Courts had held to be valid. It was not a gambling transaction that was to be penalized. State courts and Federal courts—including the Supreme court—had held that contracts for future delivery were perfectly lawful, provided that either of the parties had 'an honest intention to deliver.' But the argument upon which Mr. White in 1892 laid most stress was that the proposed tax was a fraud on its face. It pretended to be a revenue measure. In reality it was a punitive statute. And what Senator White declared that the Supreme court would do to such a bill, if it ever came before it, has great pertinence at a time when he is the presiding judge of that court."

His opinion was, in effect, that the Supreme court would brush such an act aside as "a flagrant and open violation of the Constitution." The Senators of the present time will do well to take note of the view held by so distinguished a predecessor and to profit by the reasoning and the facts which he brought to bear upon an issue in all essentials the same as that now pending.

The suggested tax of fifty cents a bale on contracts for future delivery of cotton has bestirred widespread and well-warranted protest, particularly among mechants and farmers and commercial bodies in the South, whose interests are vitally concerned. Such contracts, as The Journal has previously pointed out, are a thoroughly legitimate means for the honest dealers's protection against ruinous losses in the continually fluctuating price of cotton. Without the safeguard afforded by such contracts, it is doubtful that extensive cotton business could be conducted. A tax like that proposed as a rider to the pending tariff bill would be as harmful to the farmer as to the manufacturer and merchant, for, it would inevitably lower the price of cotton. It is unjust, uncalled for; and, as the New York Evening Post pertinently remarks: "From the folly of having temporarily approved of this tax, Democratic senators should retreat as soon and with what dignity they can."

A Land of the Unexpected.

The ghost of Elsinore was not more fitful or perturbed than the inconstant spirit of the Balkan contest: "'Tis here, 'tis there, 'tis gone," and anon it reappears in some unexpected quarter to bestir new plots in that troublous land and to vex with new problems all the nations of Europe. From its outbreak nearly a year ago, the peninsula war has been a hurrying series of surprises. Thousands of lives have been sacrificed and vast areas of fertile country have been desolated; yet, today the situation is more uncertain and perplexing than ever.

Few men believed at the beginning of this war that the little Balkan States, however, stanchly they might fight together would be able to overthrow Turkish rule in Southeastern Europe. The Moslem army, famed for its vigor and discipline, was expected to crush its enemy in the first few battles; and, that failing, it was considered a matter of course that the larger Powers would never permit the dismemberment of the Turkish empire and the consequent rise of a strong Slavic confederation. But the successes of the Allies were as numerous as they were rapid, so that within comparatively a few months Turkey had been brought to humble appeals for peace and the Powers were preparing to accept a new map and a new era.

But scarcely had the new boundaries been tentatively decided upon than the Allies fell out with one another. Bulgaria sought to impose terms of her own upon her joint-laborers Servia and Greece; the latter resented and then resisted such a program and soon the peninsula was trembling again with the clash of battle. The result is that today we find the Turks militant and ready at a moment's opportunity to snatch back the lands they had surrendered. The Balkan alliance seems hopelessly broken. Bulgaria has fallen from her rapidly won pre-emience to a position of pitiful inferiority. None of the Balkan States is able unaided to retain the fruits of the common victory against the Turk.

The great Powers thus far show a disposition to let the smaller countries fight out their differences. Austria and Germany are eager that such a policy prevail, for, they are naturally alarmed at the prospect of a strong Slavic union on their flank. Indeed, with the possible exception of Russia, the Powers seem to be of the opinion that the most satisfactory condition which can obtain in the Balkans is that which existed prior to the recent war, when the balance of power lay in the hands of Turkey, a government which because of it very weakness was unlikely to breed international trouble.

It is scarcely credible, however, that Turkey will be permitted to re-invest any considerable portion of the territory she has lost, even should she be physically capable of doing so. While the Balkan States are now relatively weak and are divided, their rights and interests nevetheless command consideration. Russia is peculiarly concerned in the fortunes of her Slav neighbors and present omens indicate that she will throw her influence to the side of peace. In such a movement she would doubtless be supported by England and France.

Certainly, it is to the interest of the Balkan States and to the larger cause of progress and civilization that the differences among Bulgaria, Greece and Servia be composed in order that they may proceed to the great tasks of development and emancipation which lie before them. Turkey has proved herself unworthy of place or power in the affairs of Europe. The people and the countries that have been freed from her withering influence should remain so.

Take it from us, this Southern league race is some close affair.

During the season, one wonders why it isn't pronounced canteloop.

At the present rate, they all look like pennant winners to the fan.

If Billy Smith keeps up the lick, there will be no necessity for the recall.

Even Penrose admits that there is no use fighting the tariff. Good example this for some Democratic senators to follow.

A Disorganized Minority.

From Senator Penrose, comes the interesting statement that there will be no concerted minority action against the Democratic tariff bill and no minority report from the finance committee "except in the form of criticism by various individual Republicans." Taken at its face value, this would seem to mean that the Standpatters are unable to muster even a show of disciplined resistance to the Democratic measure. Their attack will be one in which each man shoots for himself and mostly, no doubt, in the air.

The fact is there is no effectively organized minority in the Senate. Among the four-and-forty nominal Republicans, there are a number like La Follette and Cummins who have little in common with the Old Guard and who have not succeeded in reorganizing their party in accordance with their own beliefs. There is one lone "Progressive." This insurgent element lacks coherence and leadership and at the same time it is beset with a certain spirit of prejudice that keeps it from working efficiently with the Democratic majority, even though the latter's program is liberal and constructive.

Senator La Follette, it is said, purposes to offer a report of his own on the Underwood-Simmons bill and to make a speech that will consume probably a week. In like manner, other Republicans of all factions will be heard from; but their opposition will be that of individuals. They will doubtless vote, however, almost as a unit; and thus, in so far as the people are concerned, their influence in this issue will be completely reactionary.

The tariff bill is now on the final lap of its progress toward enactment. The debate that is opening promises to be a matter of form rather than of effect and before the summer is much further advanced the measure will no doubt become a law.

It begins to look as if the G. O. P. will have to see a tariff reduction.

Uncle Sam will make a pretty good income himself once he puts the tax on.

It's enough to make a horse laugh to see a male flirt nursing a broken heart.

One may sometimes guess how a young man will turn out by noting the time he turns in.

CAMPS FOR SICK BABIES

By Frederic J. Haskin

God's out of doors was made for babies no less than for babies grown up, and we children of a larger growth who have it in our physical power to hinder or to help the growing child are coming more and more keenly to realize our responsibilities in this direction. Under present social conditions many babies are born and must live in crowded city tenements, in places where there is little air and that little contaminated. To take an infant from such surroundings and give him even a few days of free air is at least to minimize his sufferings in the heated summer, and often it is to save his life.

Thus it is that "baby camps" have come to be a part of the regular charity summer work in many of the large cities of the country. Wholesale transfers of the youthful inhabitants of baby asylums from stuffy institutional buildings in the city to open-air camps for the summer months have been successfully tried in many cities. Camps for the accommodation of mothers and their babies are well established features of summer charity work in many others.

The ideal camp is not too large. Half a dozen tents each accommodating a dozen babies are better than one large affair where there are fifty or sixty little ones to be cared for. The equipment is simple and inexpensive. Sometimes an old building can be rented for a nominal price which will form the ideal nucleus. A two or three room cottage in any healthy rural locality, where there is shade and a sufficient supply of pure water, will meet the requirements. The outdoor life strengthens the babies so that many adjuncts necessary in the home may be dispensed with as, for example, the hot water supply which is essential for any building in town in which any number of human beings are to be cared for. The bathing facilities for a dozen babies may be provided by the natural water supply tempered perhaps for the very youngest babies by a little fuel heated in a tea kettle. Half a dozen tin or enamelled bath tubs costing less than $1 apiece are quite sufficient to give all of the youngsters their proper baths.

The other equipment consists of a refrigerator or some other means of keeping milk at a proper temperature after it has been prepared upon the kitchen stove, which stove serves to prepare th meals of the nurse in charge of the camp. Sometimes a porch will serve for a sleeping room but, when porch room is not available, tents can be added as needed. The idea is that the babies should spend all of the twenty-four hours out of doors if possible. Even a light summer rain will not hurt a baby if it is properly cared for afterwards. For any prolonged rainy spell suitable shelter must, of course, be provided.

A baby camp recently opened under the auspices of the Associated Charities in the District of Columbia has also undertaken to care for the babies' mothers. The baby camp is located within easy reach of a summer camp for older children so that a mother having a sick baby and several other children may give her personal care to her baby and also be able to see her other children each day. This camp has several unique features. It will accommodate fifty babies with their mothers and could take in a few more if necessary. Most of the guests go there for a period of two weeks, but this time may be extended if the condition of the baby seems to warrant it. A woman physician is in attendance and watches carefully over the health of the mothers and babies, especially the nursing mothers because of the effect their health has upon that of their little ones.

The mothers are taught in the simplest manner possible all that they should know. Each mother bathes her own baby each morning under the direction of the nurse, and is guided as to the amount of clothing to be put upon the child for the day. During the greatest heat this should be reduced as much as possible. The sweltering flannel bands which old-fashioned mothers will cling to are now taboo, and the little body is left as unencumbered as possible to soak in the fullest quantity of oxygen to be gotten from the outdoor air. If the day is chilly, heavier clothes are provided, but these are of the simplest kind and within reach of every mother.

When the babies have been properly bathed and are placed in a shady spot for their morning naps, the mothers who do not nourish their babies from their own breasts are taught how to prepare the food from the formula which has been provided for each individual child by the camp doctor, who usually makes a daily visit. Sometimes lime water, barley and other ingredients are addded to the milk which in every case must be sterilized and kept in a cool place during the day. For a young baby this prepared milk may have to be warmed to a blood temperature at each feeding period. The mothers are taught how each process may be done in the simplest, easiest way, as well as the danger to the health of the child which comes from the omission of any of these precautions. In addition to this, lectures are given to the mothers upon the means of improving their own physical conditions. Nursing mothers are taught the foods for their own nourishment which are best suited to keep their babies in good health and to avoid those which may be harmful. Many a case of colic which gives prolonged agony to a baby, as well as sleepless hours to his parents, is entirely due to something the mother has eaten. Food may disagree with the baby without causing the mother any discomfort at all. Ignorance of the causes of such illnesses to nursing infants will soon be overcome in the summer baby camps.

The sending of nursing mothers with their babies into camps passed the experimental stage long ago. The Federation of Women's Clubs in a city in the middle west, five years ago, established a mother and baby camp upon a small farm several miles from the city. The equipment was primitive and simple, but babies sent there in apparently a dying condition began to take a new lease of life in a week or two. A mother, who went to the camp with her first puny, little baby five years ago has now three little ones, all rosy and well cared for. She credits the camp not only with having saved the life of her first baby, but with having taught her how to take care of the others.

The Insects' Homer

(Chicago Tribune.)

In a little city of Provence there lived an aged man. He had there a small parcel of ground and a simple house. All his life, or the better part of it at least, he had been poor, and for the better part of that life he was unknown.

But he "cultivated his garden," and the fruit of his effort within those few square yards is fame.

The philosopher has no better text than the life of Henri Fabre of Serignan—and the word—the "insects' Homer," one of the great naturalists of his time and one of its great writers.

Men have achieved greatness by conquering realms, by discovering continents or suns and their systems. This man studied a few feet of soil and the life it sustains. Within his garden walls was his Odyssey, and the wonders he found and recorded were as thrilling as the passage of Scylla and Charybdis, as alluring as the vision of the pillars of Hercules against the sunset.

What makes romance, what makes that adventure which we sigh for as experience? The reaction of the mind and imagination upon events—not events themselves. Nothing in life is petty or unimportant. Henri Fabre, in his tiny garden in a far away town, poor, obscure, yet indomitable as Ulysses and patient as Columbus, teaches us not only the wonders of the insect world but the inexhaustible wonder of that insect, man, who may spin marvels out of himself from some infinitesimal foothold of an illimitable universe.

The Conning Tower

TO MYRTILLA.

Myrtilla mine, none is so fair as thou;
None is more fain than I to give thee credit
For hair and lips and eyes and cheek and brow—
Some nectarine is accurate. . . . . I said it.

For I have been an eager, willing swain,
Despite thine Economic Independence;
Often my love for thee hath stood a strain,
And stood it for thy roscate resplendence.

What time thou wearest these horrific styles,
The comic lid, th. blouse named for the Bulgar,
Mine utter love dispelled my scornful smiles,
For thou wert funny without being vulgar.

I thought thee safe; I deemed my love secure;
But now I groan—I seek bichloride beakers,
For there be things my love can not endure—
Thou look'st a fright, Myrt, in thy tennis sneakers.

A SUMMER DAY.

The birds and bees and little ants
Are busy all the day,
The barndog in his corner pants,*
The young folks are at play;
And they who may sit idly by,
Who are with plenty blest,
Oh, well, for them, they need not ply,
Comforts at their behest.

The warm day comes to its dark close,
The chain of toil's released,
And night comes down with sweet repose,
The willing hands have ceased;
And they who idle all the day,
And they who burdens bear,
Partake of sleep, nature's repay,
In which all life may share.

The Sense in Cursing

Two men entered a train at a small station out west and took seats facing an elderly man. They fell to telling hunting stories with great animation and many oaths.

Noticing that the old man was an interested listener, one of the men spoke to him and asked whether he, too, were not a hunter, with a story or two worth hearing.

The old man thought he could tell one and this is what he said:

"One day I thought I would go hunting; so I took my tin pan tinder box gun and went up into a tin pan tinder box woods on the side of a tin pan tinder box mountain, and I waited a tin pan tinder box long time; and then I saw a tin pan tinder box fine buck coming toward me, so I put my old tin pan tinder box gun to my shoulder and fired. And that tin pan tinder box buck fell right in its tin pan tinder box tracks; and it was the finest tin pan tinder box buck I ever killed." After a pause he said, "How do you like my story?"

"Oh, the story is all right, but I don't see what all that 'tin pan tinder box' has to do with it."

"Well," replied the old man, "that is just my way of swearing."

"I don't see much sense in swearing that way," said the other, with manifest disgust.

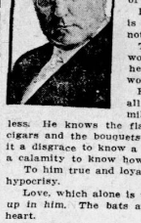
To which the old man responded: "There is as much sense in my way of swearing as there is in yours, young man."—Youth's Companion.

The Man of the World

BY DR. FRANK CRANE.

(Copyright, 1913, by Frank Crane.)

The Man of the World is the noxious triumph of the disease called civilization.



He is as a little poison flower in its buttonhole. He is exquisite in his dress and in his food. Is not the meat more than life, and raiment than the body?

He is so completely the creature of fashion that he is creator of fashion.

He is utterly sophisticated. He is considered interesting because nothing any more interests him.

The two things that make life worth living and the two things he considers most ridiculous—wonder and enthusiasm.

He is proud of his ignorance of all that is useful and of his familiarity with all that is useless. He knows the flavors and smells of expensive cigars and the bouquets of wines, but would consider it a disgrace to know a hickory tree from an elm, and a calamity to know how to run a locomotive.

To him true and loyal love is a joke, and all virtue hypocrisy.

Love, which alone is the fountain of youth, is dried up in him. The bats and lizards of lust inhabit his heart.

His heart is a thousand years old.

He is farthest removed from that childishness which makes sound souls, and his keenest pleasures are Mephistophelian.

His religion is a witty pessimism.

The most enjoyable things to him are subtle sins.

He attracts women as a serpent lures birds, by the fascination which anything utterly cruel possesses.

He has a certain tranquility of soul, for he is never worried by temptation; he always yields.

He is a weasel before whose assurance lions tremble.

Anything important he studiously neglects, and if serious only in trifles.

If he has a wife she detests him; if he has a mis*tress she fears him; if he has children* they hate him; if he has a mother she is ashamed of him.

He moves in the narrowest of provincial worlds, the smart set.

He lives in terrible isolation, for where there is no loyalty there are no friends.

He has no inseparable companion but himself, and himself he hates.

When he dies he will be no different from when he is alive; he will be dirt then as now. The only change will be that he will cease to wear a polished shirt.

His epitaph shall be the words of Marzarete:

"Es steht ihm an der Stirn geschrieben,
Dass er nicht mag eine Seele lieben."

(It stands writtten upon his brow
That he could not love a human soul.)

An Acquired Habit of Unfairness

(Albany Herald.)

The fact that Congressman Bell had his nomination of Editor Hardy for the Gainesville postmastership turned down, plus the other fact that Senator Hoke Smith, for good reasons of his own, declined when called upon by the congressman to go to his rescue, does not, when fairly interpreted and taken into consideration with some other well known facts, necessarily imply, as some of the factional organs are asserting with great show of indignation and resentment, that "no Underwood man need apply" for appointment to a federal office in Georgia.

It is perfectly natural that Congressman Bell should feel a little sore over having his nominee for the postmastership at his home town turned down, but it must be admitted that he was unfortunate, to say the least of it, in his selection of one for either Senator Smith to indorse or President Wilson to appoint, assuming that they are both "just human" and have loyal friends who have some claim on their good offices to serve.

Congressman Bell's "statement" which he gave out to the press made the assertion that some "hidden influence" seemed to be at work in Washington to deny any patronage to any in Georgia who had not supported President Wilson in the primary, and this assertion was made in a way to create the impression that that "hidden influence" was tucked away somewhere in the person of Senator Smith.

What a big man the political enemies of Hoke Smith make him out to be, and how they do magnify his power and influence when it suits their purposes to do so!

Certain newspapers and politicians in their power to belittle and discredit him ever since he has been in politics now seem to be engaged in an effort to have it appear that he is all-powerful, exercising an irresistible influence in Washington, and that he is, therefore, responsible for the defeat of every man in Georgia who aspires for a federal job and fails to get it.

But some newspapers and politicians in Georgia seem to have acquired the habit of being unfair to Hoke Smith, and they just can't shake it off or live it down.

Would You Make a Manager?

(Hugo Munsterberg in the Youth's Companion.)

Anyone who has to manage men or things must be able quickly to bring order out of confusion. Test your friend's talent in this respect by writing on your paper five words of a special class, such as the names of five flowers, or of five animals, or of five famous poets, with the first letter always in the right place, while the order of the other letters is changed.

The person on whom you are experimenting knows only to which class the words belong—whether they are the names of animals or of flowers, or of poets. See how long it takes him to write the five correct words in place of the misspelled ones. The animal card may read, "Tetrul, etalenph, dykeno, serdip, gallire," and the vegetable card, "Vellto, diloffad, melap, moreshmu, cuttnesh." Some persons will be able to read at once: "Turtle, elephant, donkey, spider, gorilla," and the other card, "Violet, daffodil, maple, mushroom, chestnut."

Others who have no talent for rearranging the elements of a confused situation will stare at the words, unable to make any sense of them.

"I would say 'Beg your pardon.'"

"That's my own little son!" smiled the pleased mother. "And if the gentleman gave you a penny for your politeness what would you say?"

The innocent look passed from Tommy's eyes as he quickly answerd:

"Why, I would stand on the other foot and say 'Beg pardon!' again, of course."

MAY ASK BOND ISSUE TO PAY GEORGIA TEACHERS

County Superintendents Appeal to Legislative Committees for Relief

Members of the house and senate education committees Thursday declared themselves in thorough accord with the bills calling for an additional tax of 1 mill to provide for the payment of school teachers. In accord with sentiments expressed by members of the Association of County School Superintendents when the committees met in joint session Wednesday afternoon, they expressed their intention to appeal for a bond issue of $1,000,000 for this purpose in the event the bill should be defeated.

It was the expressed purpose of the committee to have appointed a subcommittee to draft a bill calling for the bond issue should such action become necessary during the present session of the legislature.

This meeting of the joint committee marked the first determined step on the part of the general assembly to care for the school teachers of the state. Appeals from the different county superintendents as to the needs of the schools were received with unanimous favor and no doubt was left but the two committees would take drastic action toward having the present uncertain method of payment wiped out and devise means for paying the teachers their salaries when due.

State School Superintendent M. L. Brittain declared himself in favor of the proposed bond issue rather than the 1 mill increase in taxes, but stated that any action of the committee would meet with his approval as he was certain it would take the most logical course to make prompt payments.

NEED FOR BETTER TEACHERS.

Chairman H. H. Stone, of Oxford, heading the county school superintendents, made the startling announcement that out of the applicants for teachers' positions at the last examinations, that not more than six were over twenty-two years of age. Lack of money, he said, was telling on the quality of those applying for positions. "What we need," said Prof. Stone, "are older and more experienced teachers."

At an early date the bills for the 1 mill increase will be taken up by the committee and recommended to the house for passage.

General judiciary committee No. 2, headed by O. T. Gower, of Crisp, reported favorably the bill of Mr. Davidson, of Putnam, providing for a prisoner in criminal trials to testify under oath should he wish to do so. In the event that such testimony is sworn, the prisoner must subject himself to a cross-examination, though the question must be confined entirely to the facts testified to. Attorneys will not have the privilege of questioning on points not included in the statement. On the other hand, if the prisoner declines to testify under oath, as is his right, the procedure in trials will be the same as is practiced under the present law, no one having the right to question or cross-question the accused.

Chief of Police James L. Beavers, Wilmer L. Moore, president of the chamber of commerce; Walter G. Cooper, the secretary, and W. J. Lowenstein, chairman of the organization's public safety committee, appeared before the committee in the interest of the bills bearing on the carrying, sale or licensing of concealed weapons. After some discussion these bills were also referred to a subcommittee, composed of Messrs. Davidson, Picquet, Field, Hopkins and Edmondson.

CHANGE APPROPRIATIONS.

In executive session Wednesday afternoon that began at 3 o'clock and lasted well into the twilight, the appropriations committee of the house rescinded the former action of its subcommittee in the matter of increased appropriations to three state institutions.

The $15,000 taken from the set amount allotted to the Agricultural college at Athens was restored, which gives it in all the $100,000 asked. In restoring this amount, however, the main committee specified that only the original $85,000 as appropriated by the subcommittee is for the use of the college. The additional amount restored to the institution must be spent in its entirety for the district schools.

Whether or not this action of the committee will have any effect on the well founded report to the effect that the state experiment station eventually will be removed to Athens as a part of the Agricultural school through the failure of the station to receive an appropriation of $7,500, is yet a mooted question. The fact remains that the committee has not and probably never will allow this appropriation, which is necessary in order not to lose the government's fund of $30,000 for the maintenance and operation of the plant near Griffin.

It is still asserted by some that the United States will be asked to transfer its appropriation to the agricultural college with the distinct understanding that the experiment station will be operated in connection with same.

The largest increase allowed was for the state sanitarium. During the years 1912 and 1913 the institution received annually $530,000. The sheet as amended by the committee increases the appropriation in 1914 to $540,000, and 1915 to $560,000, or a total increase of $30,000 for the next two years.

The only other amendment made to the bill as prepared by the subcommittee was an increase of the appropriation first given the state medical college in Augusta. The school which the general assembly is to visit on Saturday as guests of the citizens of Augusta will receive the original $50,000 asked, $15,000 in excess of the amount granted in the original draft.

ATLANTA WORKING GIRLS SOON MAY HAVE HOME

Equal Suffrage Association Plans for Boarding Home and Course of Instruction

In order to provide a suitable boarding home for working girls, the members of the Atlanta Equal Suffrage association, co-operating with Mrs. Ada T. Ralls, have planned for a well-equipped house, which will be known as the Belmont Addams house. In addition to affording pleasant quarters at reasonable rates, there will be classes in art, domestic science, music and a general business course. In compliment to Mrs. Mary L. McLendon, president of the Georgia association, the convention hall of the home is to be named McLendon hall. Plans for the home were discussed at the meeting of the association Wednesday, at which time a number of other interesting reforms were outlined.

Mrs. McLendon urged the necessity for a law making the age of consent for girls twenty-one years. Mrs. M. T. McWhorter discussed the need of a child labor bill which would provide for inspectors to enforce the law.

The association, as a whole, indorsed the movement to provide a matron for the county jail, and asserted its intention of urging the matter before the county commissioners.

The association also decided to make every effort to have a bill passed providing for the pensioning of public school teachers; one providing for the inspection of county jails; one to compel the screening of hotels; one requiring sanitation in workshops and factories, and in soda fountains, and another to prevent the sale of cigarette papers; one compelling employers to provide seats for women workers, and another on compulsory education and prohibition laws.

Mrs. W. H. Felton, Mrs. M. C. Hardin, Mrs. Susan E. Cunningham, Mrs. M. T. McWhorter and Mrs. L. J. Grossman were chosen delegates to the mass meeting for the open discussion of suffrage on Tuesday night.

Wedding and Frills Set For Thursday, They Got Married One Day Ahead

When Miss Vesta Haygood, of 372 Bill street, and Mr. John Etheridge, of Quitman, Ga., found out that their friends were going to "whoop things up" at their wedding, which had been announced for Thursday afternoon, they put their heads together and decided to dodge the cow bells and rice showers they were due to get. So, quietly, Wednesday afternoon they strolled over to Dr. J. B. Robbins', at 171 Capitol avenue, and he married them and they walked as quietly back home without a single jingle of the cow bells to jar their ears or a single grain of rice to pelt them in the face.

The bride is a charming young woman, with hosts of friends, and is the daughter of W. Lee Haygood, deputy on the staff of Sheriff C. W. Mangum. Mr. Haygood formerly for several years was a member of The Journal's company of workers, resigning his newspaper connection to take political office. He and Mrs. Haygood have congratulated the young folks upon outwitting them and marrying twenty-four hours ahead of time, even though they confess to disappointment that they couldn't be there. Mr. Etheridge, the groom, is connected with the Atlantic Coast Line railway at Quitman. After a honeymoon at Atlantic Beach, the young couple will make their home in Quitman.

DR. LOVEJOY MAKES PLEA FOR ENFORCING WEBB LAW

Anti-Saloon League President Writes on Bill Before Legislature

Editor The Journal: The Webb-Kenyon bill, recently passed by the United States congress, provides that it shall be unlawful for carriers of any sort to transport alcoholic liquors into any state to be used in violation of the laws of that state.

There is now a bill before the general assembly of Georgia, the purpose of which is to make that law effective. The Webb law is aimed at the carriers. This bill, following the Webb law, is also aimed at the carriers. It provides that if any carrier brings into this state alcoholic liquors to be used for purposes which the prohibition laws of Georgia do not allow it (the carrier) shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and the burden of proof rests on the carrier to show that such shipment was not in violation of the prohibition laws of the state.

The enemies of prohibition will seek to put the burden of proof on the state, which will amount to a defeat of the purpose of this bill. Let the friends of prohibition be on their guard. We ask our friends in the legislature not for any reason to allow this feature of our bill to be altered. We have fought for more than twenty years to get a law (the Webb bill) through congress. We are on the eve of final victory. Our bill, as it is drawn, will give it to us.

W. P. LOVEJOY.

WEBB LAW MEASURE FAVORABLY REPORTED

Committee Recommends Passage of Bill to Enforce New Federal Law in State

The temperance committee of the state senate Thursday morning favorably reported the bill of Senator Searcy, the purpose of which is to apply the provisions of the Webb law to Georgia.

The bill as reported provides that no intoxicating liquors can be shipped into Georgia for illegal purposes—that is, for purposes that are in violation of the state prohibition law. The law, if enacted, will not prevent shipments of whisky to individuals in the state, nor will it affect legitimate locker clubs nor the sale of near-beer.

An amendment to the bill as introduced by Senator Searcy provides that the responsibility for determining whether a shipment is legal shall rest upon the railroads whenever the shipment is more than three gallons. When the shipment is less than three gallons the state must establish whether the shipment comes within the law. There was a heated discussion in the committee before the amendment was finally adopted.

When the bill goes to the senate it will no doubt provoke an interesting discussion on the floor of that body.

Some days ago it was announced by the Anti-Saloon league that no effort would be made by the temperance people at this session o fthe legislature to obtain prohibition legislation further than to secure a measure applying the Webb law to Georgia. It is likely, therefore, that the temperance people will concentrate their efforts in securing the passage of the measure favorably reported Thursday morning.

SUNDAY WORK PERMITTED TO HURRY NEW CREMATORY

First Garbage Will Be Burned Thursday of Next Week

On request of Councilman C. L. Ashley, chairman of the sanitary affairs committee of council, Mayor Woodward has issued a permit for men to work during Sunday on the new crematory in order that it may be ready for burning garbage next week.

Most of the heavy work on the crematory is completed, but many small things, such as pipe connections, electrical wirings and so forth, are yet to be done. This necessitates work on Sunday if the plant is to be in readiness.

According to Chairman Ashley, the furnaces will be fired up an Monday probably, and on Thursday the city will begin to burn garbage.

At first, only one of the three furnaces will be utilized, and only garbage from the central part of the city will be cremated.

About August 1, however, says Mr. Ashley, a sixty days' test of the crematory will be started to determine whether or not it will burn as much garbage at as low a rate as the Destructor company has guaranteed. Then all three furnaces will be fired, and garbage from all parts of the city will be burned.

DAIRYMEN TO HAVE CITY MILK SUPPLY INSPECTED

The Atlanta Dairymen's association held its regular monthly meeting Wednesday in the auditorium, Judge John S. Candler presiding.

A committee was appointed to meet with the chamber of commerce relative to the purpose of securing Dr. R. E. North, milk commissioner of New York City, to investigate the milk supply of this city. The committee will make its report at the August meeting. Another committee was appointed to investigate a plan for buying wholesale the dairy foods to be used by the members of the association for the coming season. E. COTTON MARKET STEADY; PRICES SLIGHTLY LOWER

Market in New York Closed 2 to 8 Points Down From the Previous Close

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, July 17.—A private report made of the condition of the growing crop 82.4 as against 81.5 on July 25, and 82.6 on July 10, as against 84.8 on August 1, and was suggesting a deterioration of over 1 per cent for the first half of the crop reporting period, owing to the dry weather disappointing forecast calles in the cotton market at the opening this morning, but prices were also influenced by forecasts for continued dry weather in the south, and the market opened steady at an advance of 1 to 3 points. There was a good deal of scattered realizing, however, and the market eased off to 3 points below the range of 2 or 3 points during the early trading.

The market was quiet late in the morning with prices ruling off 5 or 6 points from the best figures of the day.

Trading remained very quiet during the early afternoon and prices worked within a point of or two yesterday's closing.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

(By Associated Press.)

NEW ORLEANS, July 17.—Cotton futures opened steady, unchanged to 3 points down compared with the close of yesterday. Cables were lower than expected and considerable selling was prevented by the continued dry weather in Texas and the forecast for fair weather tonight and tomorrow for all belts. At the end of the first trading period July sold off 5 points, the lowest thereof were 3 points under yesterday's final figures and at the end of the first half hour October and December were 2 points lower. Some disposition to advance was shown around the middle of the session, but the feeling of the reports that the demand was good for spot cotton in October and later delivery. This was met by the claims of the bears that the big crop conditions of the belt were offering cotton freely. Considerable hedge selling was mentioned, however. It was said that certain spot interests were endeavoring to build up stocks at unfavorable rates ports, especially at New Orleans and Galveston. The highest of the morning prices were unchanged to 2 points lower and 2 points below yesterday's final figures. At noon they were 3 points down.

COTTON MARKET OPINIONS.

Josephthal, Louchheim & Co.: We continue to advise buying on all strong breaks.

Morris H. Rothschild & Co.: The market is expected to respond easily to unfavorable conditions.

Logan & Bryan: A higher range of values for July at all unlikely.

Hayden, Stone & Co.: This is the normal season for crop scares and the market is likely to be feverish while uncertainty over the crop lasts.

Miller &&& Co.: A skillfully engineered crop scare, therefore, among the possibilities and further selling orders.

NEW YORK COTTON LETTER

NEW YORK, July 17.—The market was firm in the closing report showing a deterioration of 1.4 during the past two weeks, and unsettled short covering in July. Offerings, however, became freer on the slight advance and the market, generally speaking, remained inactive after the first hour. Traders were disappointed because the gilles' figure as the public impression is that the crop has improved since the last bureau. We hear of another shipment of 4,000 bales out of the local stock which will reduce it to 25,000 and this has a tendency to reflect the situation in the market narrow. Anderson.

NEW YORK STOCK LETTER

NEW YORK, July 17.—Although the market shows some hesitation, prices held well and if it appeared there was enough support by large interests today. Every day of good weather brings us nearer to the harvesting of a big crop, which means prosperity for the railroads and large earnings for our railroads. Mexican included may cause a temporary recession, but in our opinion stocks accumulated on weak spots will show satisfactory profits. Carter.

CHICAGO PRODUCE MARKET

COTTON GOSSIP

Times-Democrat says: Steadiness of the old crop deliveries (New Orleans July was traded in at between 12.46 and 12.51 all day yesterday as against 1.27-16 for middling spots) and fear entertained by the talent as to the possible outcome of the season's bull movement inspired cotton market support, while war rumors from the Far East were used as an effort. The market being in the shadow of Washington's legislative activities developed no enterprise. The talent awaited developments. Every day now the bull faction brings to light some evidence favorable to their position. Early and persistent drier weather than in 1912-13. Meanwhile there is far less evidence of forward buying of spinners' cotton in mesal at this time of the year. Foreign spinners are losing the old profitable legislation in America will transfer cotton

Being a Gentlewoman

(Harper's Bazar.)

Most women are ambitious to be thought women of the world, and it is quite amazing how many go directly the wrong way to work. They are so apt to think that a haughty manner, an aloof and uninterested spirit proves worldliness. Savoi-Faire, writes a great lady, is, after all, nothing else than consideration for others. Long ago Confucius set it down. "It is all one to a gentleman; few or many, high or low, a gentleman never slights any man." The truth is unvaryine, and the distinguishing mark of a great lady even today is the power of setting people at their ease, of summoning the best and most interesting of their qualities to the surface, of making the best of every situation and every person she meets. One can hazard a very safe guess at the amount of breeding a lady possesses by the amount of security, ease, geniality she educes from those surrounding her.

Never dream that things make elegance. Tennyson entertained the Prince of Wales (who called unexpectedly just as the poet's household was moving) on packed goods boxes, but apparently the torn-up room and hard seats did not interfere with easy and interesting converse. The great lady is she who makes all who come into her house, from the scullery maid to the queen, feel at ease and secure and happy because they know they are in the house of graciousness and benignity. To hurt, to slight, to wound, to make others uncomfortable betrays crudity and awkward breeding and shows that one is not to the "manner born."

Nor does this mean that witty retort is not justified when called for. Nothing could have been more swift and graceful than Lady Randolph Churchill's reply to her lunch invitation: "Certainly not. Why should you try to encroach upon my well-known habits?" She retorted by wire immediately: "Know nothing of your habits. Hope not quite so bad as your manners."

But for ordinary uses nothing so swiftly proves our citizenship of the great world as the power of moving graciously through the world without treading on toes or knocking chips off shoulders.

AN ODD CLOAK

This is one of the odd cloaks or mantles that are much seen on cool days. It is of heavy blue corded silk, decorated with bands and a bow of the same material. Its lining is deep rose chiffon.

Marriage Customs in Foreign Lands

The Koreans marry very young, generally between the ages of twelve and fifteen. For a woman to reach twenty without marrying is considered a terrible thing. A peculiarity of these weddings is that they would appear to be a matter of interest to everyone except the parties mostly concerned, who often see one another for the first time on the wedding morning. This is because in a Korean household the boys are kept apart from the girls, the father and the sons occupying the front of the house, and the mother and the daughters living in the rear of the establishment. The parents and friends arrange the match, in accordance with their own interests, and if both parties agree and the bargain is concluded, the formalities are of the simplest. There is no religious ceremony and no legal contract.

KNOT IN PIGTAIL.

Early on the wedding morn the best man arrives to tie the bridegroom's pigtail in a knot on the top of his head, and this not only remains for ever as an outward and visible sign of his condition, but entitles him to wear a hat for the first time in his life and to be treated as a man and enter public life. He may be a mere child, twelve years of age, but he has no longer any right to play with his boy friends, and must choose his associates among old men. He has now all civil rights, and is expected to behave accordingly. If, on the contrary, a man is unable to afford a home and a wife, he may reach the age of fifty, but he must still wear his pigtail down his back, has none of the advantages of citizenship and is expected to play with kites, marbles, and such-like. Any folly he may commit is excused in the same way as the naughtiness of a child who is not responsible for his actions.

The wedding ceremony itself is most simple. The whole function consists of a procession, when the bride and bridegroom are conducted by their respective relations to a dais. There they are put face to face, and probably as already stated, see each other for the first time. They merely glance at one another, then bow, and the nuptial ties in of Korea in the August Wide is tied indissolubly.—From Curios.—World Magazine.

A Sumatra Bride.

Brides all over the world like to make the best display possible on their wedding day, and the bridal attire of the various countries is invariably both costly and beautiful. For sheer gorgeousness, however, says a writer in the August Wide World magazine, it would be hard to rival the wedding finery of the belles of the island of Sumatra. The dress is woven entirely of gold thread, and its weight is so great that the wearer can hardly move; even standing up requires a distinct effort. Apart from this shimmering, golden garment, the bride is loaded down with gold ornaments, rings, bangles, earrings, pendants, girdles and necklaces, and sundry ornamental purses of the same metal. The huge ornaments hanging on chains round her neck are hollow, but all the smaller charms are of solid native gold, most massively wrought. One might also think that the natives, having heard something about a good wife being "worth her weight in gold," had set out to prove the fact by loading their quaint little brides with the actual equivalent of their weight in the precious metal.

Conspicuous Nose Pores

How to reduce them

Wring a cloth from very hot water, lather it with Woodbury's Facial Soap, then hold it to your face. When the heat has expanded the pores, rub in very gently a fresh lather of Woodbury's. Repeat this hot water and lather application several times, stopping at once when your nose feels sensitive. Then finish by rubbing the nose for a few minutes with a lump of ice.

Woodbury's Facial Soap cleanses the pores. This treatment with it strengthens the muscular fibres of the pores so that they can contract properly. But do not expect to change in a week a condition resulting from years of neglect. Use this treatment persistently, gradually reduce the enlarged pores until they are inconspicuous.

Get Woodbury's and try this treatment tonight. Try Woodbury's also for general toilet use. See what a delightful feeling it gives your skin.

Woodbury's Facial Soap costs 25c a cake. No one hesitates at the price after their first cake.

A Sale of New Skirts at $5.00

When we say new, we mean they have just come into stock and that the materials and style of fashioning are the latest mode.

There are many specially pleasing Skirts in the collection at this special price, among them popular black-and-white effects, shepherd checks, stripes and novelty weaves.

The new draped side effects, gathered backs and button trimmed. Also some smart blue, brown and black Skirts in the latest models—at least fifteen styles to select from, and all priced for this sale at $5.00 each.

What Anne Rittenhouse Says

Women who have new clothes to make should be aware of the fact that the Bulgarian fashions are dead. They had a short and merry life and then disappeared, probably not to be revived, for they did not have in them the quality that makes for strength.

Fashion is an interesting thing because it retains its loyalty to whatever is worth while with far more strength than the critic knows, and dismisses with celerity and without ill feeling whatever is weak and puerile.

The Bulgarian fashions are good enough for the Bulgarian peasants, by whom they were worn and on whom they have been eminently picturesque for centuries, but the American woman is not environed like the working women of the Balkan states, and there is no reason for her to attempt to dress like them.

Certain military features of the Balkan soldier as well as those of the Turkish infantry were absorbed into the spring fashions, and they remain with us in a modified form. There has been some talk of the French adopting the American blouse coat, which hangs straight from the shoulder and is held in around the hips with a broad band. It is certainly not an attractive fashion, and there is no reason for any American designer to be proud of it, but as it is, the American women are tired of it. It has been worn on the stage all winter and sold in cheap suits all spring, and it has now made way for other and prettier loose coats.

The broad, careless sash which is wrapped about the waist two or three times, with its two ends brought down below the left hip, knotted and finished with tassels, is supposed to have been taken from the Turkish costume, and it has held its own and is received with enthusiasm. It is really an attractive fashion and is far more refined than the Oriental sash which came out the first of the season and was wrapped tightly around the hips in gypsy fashion.

No Balkan Colors.

It was evident from the start that the Balkan combinations would not last more than six weeks and yet the shops were flooded with every kind of garment and accessory in these varied patterns of red, white and blue, as well as yellow, purple, pink and green.

We had Balkan collars, and blouses and belts as well as parasols and stockings. America offered them from Portland to Texas as the new thing. Whether or not women bought heavily of them is another question. It would be interesting, by the way, to know if the shops lost on this kind of goods, for women turned quickly against them in great cities. Yet the merchant does not depend upon four or five huge centers for his profits.

Whatever the trade condition, the fact is that all of these Balkan things have gone as suddenly out of fashion as they came into it, not only in Paris, but in American, and the reason that one prophesies that they will not return is that they have had no intrinsic merit. The sash will remain until we are thoroughly tired of it, and even then it may take a new lease of life when September comes, because every woman has realized that it does wonderful things to a gown and puts an impossible costume into the possible class.

There are many ways in which it can do this. It can lengthen or heighten the waistline on a gown that has been longer with a normal waistline fitted to the figure, which is no longer allowed. It can make possible the wearing of a loose white net or lace blouse with a satin skirt because it forms half of the bodice and makes an admirable finishing touch.

Plain Vivid Colors.

The withdrawal of the Balkan fashion from the world of fashion does not mean that women are going back to pastel tones or to black and white.

At the opening of many of the great events abroad where the new gowns are worn that set the styles two months later, there was no diminution of emerald, red, purple and brilliant pink. White gowns have been entirely outclassed by those in tones that were once considered only possible in winter.

THE EVENING STORY

(Copyright, 1912, by W. Werner.)

Faulty Intuitions

They had been coming to the Arcadia moving picture theater for over three months every Wednesday and Saturday evenings when there was a change of films. Nettie, sitting behind the iron network and handing tickets over for the nickels of a line of people that never lessened till the last show began, had learned to know their faces. The girl was a pretty wide-eyed doll. The young fellow was tall, broad-shouldered, and looked—well, Nettie often wondered why the film firms hadn't snapped him as a star actor long before. He had keen, gray eyes, square chin and a courteous way of saying "Thank you" when Nettie gave him the change that stirred her demure little heart. In six months of city life Nettie had learned to be very wary of the impertinent faces that smiled at her through the network of the window. Usually she was very glad of that network's protection. But he was different.

They usually came about half-past eight. The girl wore simple but pretty clothes—the kind that cannot be bought ready-made. Nettie got in the habit of fashioning her own shirt waists and one-piece dresses after hers. But she could not copy the lovely yellow hair, although after she got to her room late at night she tried to twist her own wiry black hair into the same fluffy, graceful knot. Then usually she pulled the pins out, and crossly went to sleep.

This city way of living wasn't what she had dreamed of back on the farm—all light and a good time, with a place to go always. The lights were there, and there were plenty of places to go, but it is lonesome wandering about alone; and it happened that in the big seedy rooming house to which a neighbor back home had sent her (the landlady was a long-ago schoolmate of Mrs. Reed) every one was so busy trying to make one dollar do the work of a dollar and a half they had no time to entertain newcomers. Though she had plenty of chances to make acquaintances elsewhere, Nettie learned quickly to distrust too pleasant faces.

long string of faces passing the window from 1 p. m. till after 10 was diverting and took, in a large measure, the place of more personal pleasure. She learned adeptness in the parrying remarks intended to be witty. She learned to cultivate a smiling aloofness that was an effectual shield against impertinence. But in between times she was lonesome and wished disconsolately that she had pretty yellow hair and and some one to take her inside nickel shows, instead of having an olive skin, straight black hair, and a high chair behind the iron network.

Then one night the girl came shortly after 8—with another young fellow—a thin chap with a glaring green tie and the snappiest brown eyes that Nettie had ever seen. They were laughing gayly. Nettie looked at the girl reproachfully as she handed over two tickets, but since she was quite unaware of Nettie's interest, her gay smile did not diminish.

HE HAD A COURTEOUS WAY OF SAYING "THANK YOU."

For three weeks regularly she was accompanied by the snappy eyed chap. Nettie wasted a great deal of time wondering where the other one had gone and if he felt very badly. "I'd be ashamed so treated and she was so safe in her room.

"What's that?" asked old Mr. Bange, who owned the theater, peering up from the ledger, over which he was puzzling his brains and tying his forehead into such a tangle of lines that one wondered how he would ever get them straightened.

"I—nothing," stammered Nettie, crimson to her ears, and thereafter she attended strictly to business.

Then for a week the girl did not come. Nettie, even though she disapproved of her conduct, missed her. A glimpse of the pretty, smiling face was worth any three of the reels inside. Finally, late one night, after the last show had begun, "he" came. "He" was the first fellow—the one with the gray eyes. The brown-eyed chap, Nettie slightly termed the "other one." He looked tired, and there was a grave intent look in his eyes that stirred Nettie's pity. She didn't wonder. Any one would hate to give that pretty bundle of blond gayety up, and some time that silly girl would be sorry. "He" was worth ten of the "other one." Nettie gave out the wrong change twice while mentally viewing, with much satisfaction, the deep regret the some time would droop the yellow head.

"Doggone these figures!" shouted old Mr. Barge. "I can't get 'em to come out right. I'm making money every day. Ain't I?" fiercely.

"I should hope so," said Nettie in much surprise. "At least, I take it in."

"Sure I am. Don't I put it in the bank? Ain't I got it all safe? Then why, do these pesky figures say I'm losing? See that deficit. It ought to be a credit. I got the money right down on my bank book—but durned if I can figure out how I got it!"

Nettie laughed. She had grown to like her sputtering old employer. "If you've got the money in bank," lightly, "it doesn't matter, does it? I wouldn't bother with figures."

Old Bange scratched his head. "I've got to. I can't feel easy till they're straightened, I guess," solefully, "that I'll have to hire some one. I never was good in arithmetic. Fractions always make me nervous."

It was closing time. The last picture was being shown. So Nettie hurried out. She had five rather lonely blocks to walk, and was always glad when they were covered and she was safe in her room.

The next evening "he" came in from one door just as the girl and the "other one" entered from another. There was a short interchange of words among the three. The girl tossed her head, and "he" was frowning and the "other one" merely smiled.

Nettie was recalled to business by an irate old lady who declared angrily that she had given in a two-dollar bill, not a one, and if any one thought she could short-change her that person was mightily mistaken, and where was the proprietor? Nettie hastily made up the missing amount and flushed under the suspicious glare that the old lady flung back over her shoulder.

She turned at a low, amused laugh. The young fellow with the gray eyes had come through by the side corridor and was in the booth. A moment later Mr. Bange hurried back from the stage. He introduced Mr. Stane to Nettie. "I couldn't go no farther with pesky figures alone. So Mr. Stane is going to straighten 'em out," he said.

Mr. Bange hurried back to the stage and Nettie, with pink cheeks, turned to the window. For an hour she was busy. That time of the evening was the busiest. Behind her Mr. Stane worked industriously. At the end of the hour he came and looked over her shoulder. "It's about time for my sister to be coming out," said Mr. Stane.

At that moment there was a change of pictures inside and the crowd came out. "Lella," Stane called as the yellow haired girl and her escort came through the door farthest from the window. She turned, pouted slightly, but came over. "You get yourself some quinine," her brother advised sternly. "And don't you let me see you again slip out without rubbers!" She tossed her head. Her escort called back with a smile, "Don't worry, Burt, I'll see that she follows your orders."

It dawned upon Nettie that one's intuitions do not always hit the truth. His sister! And her pity had been wasted.

But he proved that he could be solicitous for other girls, too. It took three evenings to locate the old man's blunder. He had jumbled his columns indiscriminately from debit to credit side. Mr. Stane was a bookkeeper days for a big downtown firm, and he and his sister, who were alone in the world, boarded. He has been used to taking her around when she had no one else. It horrified him to learn that Nettie went home by herself at that late hour. He cut the work short to take her. And by the end of the three evenings he was on intimate enough terms to tell her that her sober, sweet face had brought him there quite as much as the change of pictures. Only, with Lela on his hands, he had not dared to think of——. But now Lela wasn't going to be on his hands much longer.

"If it hadn't been for those pesky figures," old Mr. Bange grumbled a few weeks later, "I'd still have had a ticket seller. Now, plague on it, I got to advertise for another!"

LITTLE STORIES FOR BEDTIME

BY THORNTON W. BURGESS.

(Copyright, 1913, by J. G. Lloyd.)

Peter Rabbit had sat still just as long as he could. He was stiff and lame and sore from the wounds made by Hooty the Owl, but his curiosity wouldn't let him sit still a minute longer. He just had to explore the Old Pasture. So with many a wry face and many an "Ouch!" he limped out from the shelter of the friendly old bramble bush and started out to see what the Old Pasture was like.

Now, Hooty the Owl had taught Peter wisdom. With his torn clothes and his aches and smarts he couldn't very well forget to be careful. First he made sure that there was no danger near, and this time, you may be sure, he took pains to look all around in the sky as well as on the ground. Then he limped out to the very patch of sweet clover where Hooty had so nearly caught him the night before.

"A good breakfast," said Peter, "will make a new Rabbit of me." You know Peter thinks a great deal of his stomach. So he began to eat as fast as he could, stopping every other mouthful to look and listen. "I know it's a bad habit to eat fast," said he, "but it's a whole lot worse to have an empty stomach." So he ate and ate and ate as fast as he could make his little jaws go, which is very fast, indeed.

When Peter's stomach was stuffed full he gave a great sigh of relief and limped back to the friendly old bramble bush to rest. But he couldn't sit still long, for he just had to find out all about the Old Pasture. So pretty soon he started out to explore. Such a wonderful place as it seemed to Peter. There were clumps of bushes with little open places between, just the nicest kind of playgrounds. Then there were funny spreading, prickly juniper trees, the very safest kind of places to crawl out of harm's way and to hide. Everywhere were paths made by cows. Very wonderful they seemed to Peter, who had never seen any like them before. He liked to follow them, for they led to all kinds of queer places.

Sometimes he would come to places where tall trees made him think of the Green Forest, only there were never more than a few trees together. Once he found an old tumble-down stone wall all covered with vines and he shouted right out with delight.

"It's a regular castle!" cried Peter, and he knew that there he would be safe from every one but Shadow the Weasel. But he never was wholly safe from Shadow the Weasel anywhere, so he didn't let that thought worry him. By and by he came to a wet place, called a swamp. The ground was soft and there were little pools of water. Great ferns grew there, just as they did along the bank of the Laughing Brook, only more of them. There were pretty birch trees and wild cherry trees. It was still and dark and, oh, so peaceful! Peter liked that place and sat down under a big fern to rest. He didn't hear a sound excepting the beautiful, silvery voice of Veery the Thrush. Listening to it Peter fell asleep, for he was very tired.

By and by Peter awoke. For a minute he couldn't think where he was. Then he remembered. But for a long time he sat perfectly still thinking of his adventures and wondering if they would miss him down on the Green Meadows. Then all of a sudden Peter saw something that made him sit up so suddenly that he cried, "Ouch!" for he had forgotten all about how stiff and sore he was. What do you think Peter saw? They were tracks! Yes, sir, they were tracks, Rabbit tracks in the soft mud, and Peter knew that he hadn't made them!

Women's Brown Calf Rubber Sole Pumps at $3.95; a $5.00 Value

Women's White Canvas Rubber Sole Oxfords at $4.50

These two wanted styles have just been received by express. These tan or brown calf rubber sole pumps were promised us by May 15th, and they would have been marked $5.00 if we had received them before June 1st, but in two weeks we will begin taking inventory and we want our stock at its lowest point, so they have been marked $3.95 pair. The white canvas oxfords are also $5.00 values, being made by one of the highest grade manufacturers. They are ideal for seashore, mountain or athletic wear alike. The white shoes on sale are being added to daily; this line or that one is put into the next low price scale, as the sizes get more depleted. We are selling white footwear at $1.95, $2.45, $2.95, $3.50, $4.00 and $4.50 a pair, that is worth in many cases twice that much. The tan shoes are all either $2.95, $3.95 or $4.95 a pair. There are many more months to wear them in, but we must begin to prepare our shelves for new Fall goods.

Keep Young As Long As You Can

KEEP your hair youthful looking. Don't let it grow old before your years. Faded or gray hair makes a woman look from 10 to 20 years older than if the hair were beautiful and lustrous.

Robinnaire Hair Dye

is a wonderful scientific formula. It is a color restorer. Not a dangerous dye to bleach or change the original color of the hair, but a restorer which brings back to the hair its original color and beautiful sheen and softness. For a quarter of a century it has been used by women and men practically all over the world, and we have hundreds of unsolicited letters proving its merit. It does not stain the scalp nor make the hair sticky, and its use cannot be detected.

Prepared for light, medium and dark brown and black hair; for sale by leading drug stores and toilet goods departments; 75c. If you can not get it, sent by parcel post, 83c.

If you will send with your order your druggist's name and address, we will send you FREE samples of the famous Robinnaire Face Powder and Rose Cold Cream.

A JUNE BRIDE

Mrs. Jerome B. Withers, formerly Miss Naomi Agnes Roberts, whose marriage to Mr. Withers was an event of June.

Farm Labor in Sweden

(Wallace's Farmer.)

Last year a complete investigation was made of the farm labor conditions in Sweden, 95 per cent of the entire country being covered. Five per cent of the rural communities that were asked about the farm labor supply stated that it was entirely satisfactory; 62 per cent thought it was good enough, while 32 per cent were not satisfied.

One of the interesting questions asked was the average number of hours spent in actual work. It was found that during the three summer months the average laborer was actually working ten and one-half hours a day. For this he was receiving pay at the rate of 60 cents a day, provided he paid for his board and room in addition. Those laborers hired by the year received an average wage of $85 annually, with board and room in addition. Unmarried women working on the farm received an average yearly wage of from $50 to $60, with board and room in addition.

A Little Mistake

(The Author.)

Early one morning (about 3 a. m.), Julius Fathead arrived home. To guard against waking his wife he entered the apartment very quietly.

The parlor was dimly lighted and he saw there holding hands a man and a woman.

Julius whipped out his trusty revolver and shot the woman.

At that the man turned up the gas and said to Julius: "Sir, what do you mean by shooting my wife?"

"Oh, shucks!" exclaimed Julius, "I'm in the wrong flat!" Then he continued, smiling: "That's one on you, old man. Sorry. Good-night!"

Then Julius went home.

P. S.—If this story had been ended after Julius got home, the ending would not have been happy, because when Julius' wife saw the condition Julius was in there were bitter words —very bitter.

Crackers Are on Road for Fifteen Games---Back July 31

Fans Sticking By the Club; Need Support

To Date 104,680 Fans Have Paid Their Way Into Park, Last Year the Entire Season Only Drew 106,885

The good team given the fans by the Atlanta Baseball association and the return of Billy Smith, as manager has served to arouse great interest in baseball here, and right now the attendance at Ponce de Leon park for the season is almost as great as for the whole season of 1912. And every bit of it is deserved.

To date this year 104,680 fans have paid their way past the turnstiles at Ponce de Leon, against 106,885 for the whole of the 1912 season. Considering that the best part of the race is yet to be run and that there are some thirty games to be played at Ponce de Leon before the curtain is hauled down, the attendance figures are rather remarkable.

It is only right that the fans should show their appreciation of the work of the team and directors. The board of directors are just as anxious to win the pennant as any fan in the city, and are spending the coin in an attempt to get the very best players. Whenever a player is needed, they go on the hunt, and land one. And they do it right away, money not checking them in the least.

Right now each one of the players on the Cracker club is keyed up to the highest possible pitch. They all believe the pennant is to fly at Ponce de Leon, and you can't make them believe otherwise. And when you get the players thinking in this light it is a sure indication that they are going good and expect to get even better. Long, Smith, Agler, Alperman and, in fact, the whole bunch are enthusiastic over the chances of the club; and whenever they slip over an error ora misplay it is owing to their over-anxiety.

The fact that the fans have stuck by the team is most commendable, and shows that they are pulling strong for a flag. All seem to appreciate the fact that the local association has done everything possible to build up a championship club. The large attendance would indicate that the club is making big money, but such is not the case in the least. While it is true that money may be made before the end of the season, the club is not now ahead. The big prices paid for some of the players has cut into the profits, and it will take several sales to the majors any many more paid admissions to keep the club out in front in the financial line.

Thompson Is Again Victor

Again Carl Thompson was right and again he copped, this time the Montgomery Billikens succumbing to his slants and losing the fray, 4-2. It was Carl's third time out as a Cracker and also his third victory.

The game was a battle between ex-college stars, Manning, who once starred for Auburn, being opposed to the ex-Georgia crack. It was extreme wildness that hurt Manning, the former Auburn infielder getting away with a four-hit game and yet losing.

Captain Bill Elwert was a contributor. His muff of Gribbon's toss to third to catch Agler stealing allowed the first run to score, while in the third he fumbled an easy grounder and allowed a runner to fill across.

Tommy Long was out of the game with a sprained wrist and Frank Manush had another opportunity to get in the game, Wallace Smith having returned to the third bag. In right field Manush accepted everything that came his way.

Joe Agler only had four successive times. He was placed at the top of the batting order owing to Long's absence from the game and he certainly had his eye with him. In the field the first sacker was not busy, having just three putouts and one assist.

Cotton Knaupp continues to play the short field like Terry Turner. His catch of Dunn's pop back of second in the sixth was remarkable. He also pulled several neat fielding plays on ground balls.

Manning and Sloan did most of the hitting for the visitors, each getting away with two, one of Manning's going for three sacks. This hit paved the way for a score.

Izzy Bisland continues to clout the ball. Just two hits in three times up in Wednesday's game. One was a two-bagger and sent home a run. Bisland also swiped a bag and scored a run besides playing a good game in the field.

Snedecor by deep playing and fast work on his plate robbed Alperman of a bingle in the third. The ball went over first base on the line, but the first-sacker got it.

The game was stopped with the ending of the first half of the eighth to let the teams catch early trains. There was no use finishing the eighth round, as the Crackers were ahead.

STARS OF ONE DAY

Joe Jackson: Scored three runs and got three hits out of eight times up.

Johnston, of Cleveland: Got three out of seven.

Derrill Pratt: Hit safely once in four times. He accepted six chances perfectly.

Yerkes: Got one out of three.

Zack Wheat: Hit safely twice in four trials.

Jake Daubert: Took a running start and rapped out four hits out of five trials.

Smith: Got one out of four.

Bob Byrne: Was unsuccessful in four attempts to hit.

Dode Paskert: Hit safely on two out of three occasions.

ELBERFELD CAN'T PLAY

Loss of Manager Will Be Big Handicap to the Lookout Bunch

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., July 17.—Kid Elberfeld, who was some time ago laid out of the game by a blow on the head, will not be back in harness for the remainder of the season. The Kid was beaned by Brackenbridge about a month ago, and has not been in the game since.

An examining physician discovered that Elberfeld's eyes are affected by the blow on the head received in the Nashville game, and since that time Elberfeld has been on the lookout for another shortstop for his club.

Although Elberfeld is anxious to get back into the game he is advised by his physicians to take a complete rest, and *is compelled to carry out the instruc*tions. He has been told that another such blow would be serious.

CHANGES FOR JUST A DAY

Carl Thompson again yanked a club out of first place, when he defeated Montgomery. Mobile took the vacated place by virtue of her defeat of Chattanooga.

Atlanta is now two games behind Mobile and not quite two behind Montgomery.

The Giants made it 23 out of 24 games Wednesday, when Tesreau held Cincy safe. The Phillies have started winning again, making it a sweep from St. Louis.

The Athletics split two and so did the Naps.

Nineteen Innings Are Played by These Clubs

MILWAUKEE, Wis., July 17.—The longest game staged thus far this season in the larger baseball leagues was played by the Milwaukee and Columbus teams of the American association which struggled 19 innings. Milwaukee won six to five, using four pitchers. It was the longest game ever played in the association and was full of thrills throughout the 3 hours and 45 minutes it lasted.

Jack Ferry pitched the whole game for Columbus and although Milwaukee made 18 hits oc him, he passed only three me. He struck out only two batters but kept the game under control in tight places.

LEIFIELD QUITS GAME.

CHICAGO, July 17.—"Lefty" Leifield, for years a star pitcher in the major leagues, will not join the Atlanta club, to which he was sold by the Chicago Nationals, he declared last night. He left for St. Louis, his home, where he plans to enter business.

The Garden City Golf club on Long Island is spending $30,000 putting its course in shape for the annual national amateur championship to take place there September 1 to 6.

BIG AVERAGES FOR LEADERS

The Crackers outfielded the visitors in the past series, but wereout hit, the Montgomery team having a batting average of over .300 for all three games. They got 27 hits off us to a game, while the Crackers got 21 or 7 to a game.

The averages are as follows:

Chappelle Disappears; Cost Only $20,000

CHICAGO, July 17.—President Comiskey, of the Chicago Americans, is wondering what has become of Larry Chappelle, the outfielder he purchased Monday from Milwaukee for approximately $20,000. Nothing has been heard of the youngster, who was to have appeared in a White Sox uniform in Wednesday's game here. Chappelle is known to have left Milwaukee on Tuesday bound for Chicago and he has not been seen nor heard from since.

Senoia Gets Game

SENOIA, Ga., July 17.—Senoia defeated the strong West Point team 9 to 8 in a hard fought game. Brown pitching for Senoia struck out twelve batsmen, allowing nine hits, three of which were over the fence for home runs. Score stood 5 to 8 in ninth, when Carmichael was safe on an error; a base on balls, a hit by McKnight and a double by Brown scoring three men, a sacrifice fly by Fife did the work, no outs when winning score was made.

Hodnett played sensational ball in center field, robbing West Point of good two baggers, he also hit the pill over the fence for first score.

COBB VS. JACKSON

Cobb is still out of the game. Ban Johnson has not yet fixed the time of his exile.

Jackson participated in a double-header, getting three hits out of eight trials.

BUNTS AND BINGLES

BY JULIAN MURPHEY

According to the Illinois papers they thing so much of First Baseman Lucas of the Pekin team that any big league scout would have to "Shanghai" him to get him away.

FINN HAVING TROUBLES.

With a team right in the thick of the pennant race and only one or two players needed to make a real close race, Mike Finn can't afford to spend the money for the necessary stars. Finn knows he needs the players, his directors know it and yet the fans do not support the club sufficiently well to go out and spend the necessary money.

Until one of Finn's hurlers went bad, Jacobson was put out on account of fever and Charley Starr broke his thumb, the Mobile club was going like a sure winner but now it is different and one or two players are needed to make the bunch a formidable ball club. With the exception of the Mobile and Montgomery clubs any club owner in the league would go out and spend some real money to picq up the players now needed.

It is the poor attendance in Mobile which makes the signing of new players an impossibility. When the club was here Finn remarked that he played to better crowds here any day in the week than turned out on Sunday in Mobile. This makes it mighty tough on Mike and does not give him a fair chance to show his real ability as a manager. Most of the other managers are given every support in the matter of players and when they fail to keep the club in the running it is their own fault.

Willie Ritchie says that he is going to fight "often" from now on. That is all to the mustard, Willie, but if one was to ask the camel how "often" he wanted to drink his answer might not agree with the harvest hand's to whom you put the same question. . . . . . .

ATLANTA SPENDS MONEY.

Spending money has been the middle name of the Atlanta club all season. The directors have not spared any expense at trying to give the fans a winning club. Whenever a player has been needed they have gone on the hunt and landed someone. And in most every case this purchasing has cost quite a wad of money.

Before the opening of the season the directors got busy and purchased a lot of new men in the hope of being right in the thick of the pennant race all the way. When some of these men were found to be of small calibre they were turned adrift and others purchased. Among those landed since the opening of the season are Bisland, Chapman, Thompson, Conzelman and Dent. In most each case these players cost money, some as high as $2,000.

Right now the club looks as if it has a good chance to be right in the race all the way and the directors are not sparing any expense. Only Wednesday a new hurler was bought and if he does not deliver the goods another will be landed and right away. Money is no bugaboo to the local club and it will be expended each time there is a chance to better the club.

From a boxing fan—"If Sam Langford signed to fight Harry Wuest, would he consider he had made a safety match?"

Team Has Won 11, Lost 3 and Tied 2 of the Last 16 Games – Hard Hitting Has Helped the Pitchers

Counting the last three games on the last road trip and the battles waged during the home stay completed the Atlanta club won 11, lost 3 and tied 2 games. This is a record that is calculated to place any club right in a pennant fight and has served to take Atlanta to third place and given the team almost a tie for first.

Real hard hitting games coupled with crack pitching spell the success of the club in the last 16 games. Dent, Price and Thompson have been going stronger than at any time this season and now with Conzelman in shape and Clarke, a left hander, to help Proce, the pair should be even rosier. All the club has needed all along has been better hurling and now that this is being handed up the pennant does not look so distant.

In the sixteen games of the record spurt the Crackers made 73 runs against 59 for the opposing clubs; got 137 hits against 128 and made 33 errors against 31. This shows that the edge has been all with the Crackers and the team has won because better ball has been played.

In getting back in the running for the pennant the club has lost just one series, the one to Mobile, and has taken series from Mobile, Montgomery, Memphis and New Orleans, which comprises the whole outfit of southern division clubs. Eight straight games were won before the club was defeated, the Mobile bunch being the outfit to turn the trick. After that the Crackers hit the right stride and took two of three from Montgomery and now on the road trip bid fair to go strong.

CONZELMAN WORKS GAME

Team in New Orleans for Five Battles—Hard Games on the Road Trip

Advices from New Orleans state that Brenton and Angermier will do the batterys work for the Pels while Dent or Conzelman and Chapman will work for Atlanta.

Atlanta has another rosy chance at first place as the New Orleans dispatch states that the road trip of the Pels was quite disastrous, and the Atlanta team plays five games with the crippled crew.

A sweep of this series would be quite a morsel for Billy Smith's palate just at present.

Atlanta visits the teams of the Southern league circuit in succession, playing fifteen games before they return home. Their schedule is as follows:

July 17, 18, 19, 20, 20—New Orleans.
July 21, 22, 22—Memphis.
July 24, 25, 26—Montgomery.
July 27, 28, 29, 30—Mobile.

Clarke Joins Atlanta Club

Billy Smith has at last succeeded in landing a pitcher. After being reneged on by Comisky in the Smith deal, and after being disappointed in landing Liefield, he has agreed with Clark Griffith in a deal on Pitcher Clark, of the Vancouver club.

On Wednesday afternoon Smith received a wire from Griffith that the young hurler had been turned over to the Crackers and that he was leaving that night with instruction to join the team at New Orleans.

A fourth good pitcher, with Conzelman, Dent, Price and Thompson working regularly should give the Crackers a defense which will put them on the top of the heap to stay.

Brady seems the most logical man to be turned loose to make a berth for Clark, but Smith has not decided just who the man will be, and is taking Brady on the trip.

SHOULD HAVE KEPT STAHL

—BAN JOHNSON.

NEW YORK, July 17.—President B. B. Johnson, of the American league, who left here last night for Detroit, appeared surprised and pained to learn that Jake Stahl had been relieved of the management of the world's champion Red Sox by President McAleer, of the Boston club. Johnson said:

"I deeply regret Mr. McAleer acted so hastily. There is no reason for relieving Stahl of the management of the Boston team at this time. He was entitled to every consideration the Boston club and the American league could give him. Stahl won the world's championship for the American league last fall, yet he was released by Mr. McAleer in midseason and right in his home city, Chicago.

"I cannot be held accountable for the poor showing of the Red Sox this season. Gardner, Yerkes, Wagner, Lewis, Wood and Stahl have been out of the game on account of injuries. I feel that the American league may be sharply criticised for Mr. McAleer's hasty and ill advised action. I had been in Chicago yesterday Stahl would not have been let out in such a fashion.

"Stahl was an honorable and competent manager and was highly esteemed in our league."

RICHARDS IS WHOLE SHOW IN THE MOTOR SPEEDING

Tex Shows Heels to Opposition in All Races He Was Entered

Jack Prince's big speed saucer turned out plenty of thrills for the motorcycle enthusiasts Wednesday night but when the purr of the machines had stopped and the exhaust had cleared away there wasn't anything to it but Richards. The speedy Texan just don't know what the back wheel of a machine looks like. He was pushed close in both the final heats and in one of the qualifying heats but lead the bunch always at the finish.

The big events Wednesday night were the 'Drome purse race and the Cracker Sweepstakes and the time made by the riders was something like 85 miles an hour.

Jack McNeal in his mile trial against time fell short of the track record by two fifths second. McNeal made his four laps in 39 1-5 seconds, Morty Graves holds the record at 38 4-5 seconds.

At present it looks like there is no one who can show Tex Richards a clean pair of wheels at the 'Drome and it is a shame to see one man walk away with all the ribbons in the way Tex does.

The results of Wednesday night's races:

MOTORDROME PURSE.
(HEATS, 1 MILE; FINAL, 3 MILES.)
First Heat—Henry Lewis, first; Freddie Luther, second; Jock McNeil, third. Time, 45 seconds.

Second Heat—Tex Richards, first; George Lockner, second; Billy Shields, third. Time, 45 seconds.

Third Heat—Morty Graves, first; George Lockner, second; Harry Swartz, third. Time, 41 4-5 seconds.

Finals—Tex Richards, first; Morty Graves, second; Henry Lewis, third. Time, 2:12 2-5.

CRACKER SWEEPSTAKES.
(HEATS, 3 MILES; FINALS, 7 MILES.)
First Heat—Freddie Luther, first; Henry Lewis, second; Harry Glenn, third. Time, 2:15 3-5.

Second Heat—Jock McNeil, first; George Lockner, second; George Renal, third. Time, 2:09 1-5.

Third Heat—Tex Richards, first; Morty Graves, second; Billy Shields, third. Time, 2:12 4-5.

Final—Tex Richards, first; Freddie Luther, second; George Lockner, third. Time, 5:13.

SPECIAL MATCH RACE.
(FOUR MILES.)
George Renal, first; Billy Shields, second; Harry Swartz, third. Time not announced.

Rival Boxers Due Thursday For Big Match

Abel Left Memphis Wednesday Night and White Is Reported to Be en Route—Another Bout Is Added

Wires from the managers of both Charley White and Jake Abel, principals in the big ten-round boxing match at the auditorium Friday evening, are to the effect that the boys will get to Atlanta during Thursday. The fans of boxers who are to take part in the big meeting are already on the ground, and state that they will be on hand when the gong rings.

A wire from The Journal correspondents at both Memphis and Chicago contains the information that the two principals have left for Atlanta and are in good shape for a real hard match. Abel always keeps in good shape and can be counted upon to be in the best of shape when he enters the ring.

It was only a couple of weeks ago that White boxed Jack Britton at New Orleans, and he should be in sufficiently good shape to put up a good match. Advices state, however, that he has worked hard at his home in Chicago.

Kid Young and Charlie Lee are to meet in one of the ten-round matches with Eddie Hanlon and Terry Nelson, making it in the other ten-round affair. Young Abe Attell and Tim Callahan, in a four-round match, have been added as an extra attraction.

Tickets are already on sale. The prices range from 50 cents to $2. With the arrival of the boxers, everything will be in good order for a real live performance, for Abel is coming to fight.

Speaking of records, the Athletics established the most remarkable one sprung for a good many festive moons. They recently dropped three games in succession, which is by all the odds the most monumental achievement of 1913, if not for all time.

DENYING A BASE CANARD.

John McGraw denies the rumor afloat that he and his Giants may make flag raising an annual affair for the rest of the century. "We may decide to keep the custom going for a few years," he said, "but there is no truth in the report that it will be continued forever."

A CORRECTION.

The Seventh Official Dedication of Ebbetts Field was not upon the 2000th anniversary of the stand of Thermopylae, as stated before, but the 1500th anniversary of the battle of Chevy Chase. It seems that Col. C. Horatius read that ancient ballad., beginning: "Of 1,500 Englishmen went home fifty-three, the rest in chevy Chase were slain beneath the greenwood tree."

This struck the Colonel as being an appropriate sentiment as about the same proportion of his squad was still intact.

What the Colonel should have done would have been to select the 2200th anniversary of Horatius at the Bridge for his dedication. What an address he could have made, beginning—

Then up spake Colonel Ebbetts,
A mogul brave was he—
Lo, who will stand at my right hand
Across the bridge with me—
Lo, who will pitch a winning game
And give the ball a thump"—
But Dahlen answered never a word,
His club was in a slump.

Reader—No, the Russell with the White Sox is no relation to the Russell with Connie Mack. The White Sox Russell is a regular pitcher; one of the most regular there is just at present, with a great chance to stay so.

NOT YET.

Hurry-Up Yost sailed for Europe Wednesday, but not to study English football methods.

"My Michigan teams are not what they used to be," he stated, "but I would still like to take any of them and play Oxford for the championship. The English stroke has its troubles in polo and boat racing, but in football it is nothing but tag."

Yost, who is also a great baseball fan, believes the Athletics have the best ball club that ever played the game. He is a great admirer of Connie Mack's. There are others who believe Connie has considerable ball club, taken by the large and hither and thither, including a number of American league pitchers.

Joe Jackson is beginning to realize that before catching Joe Jackson there is no recourse in sight save that of hitting the ball. The mere act of continuing a .400 clip seems to be worse than useless against the Carolina Onslaught who is about to lose all control of himself when at bat. Tyrus has stopped Joseph for the last two seasons, but he has a much tougher fight ahead. If he loses out there is a rumor that South Carolina will annex Georgia this winter and levy a heavy tax upon its championship.

UMP TAKES FAN'S SHIRT

ST. LOUIS, July 17.—Umpire "Billy" Evans, of the American league staff, won a tug-of-war with a man who had been calling him harsh names during the Washington-St. Louis contest here Wednesday afternoon. After the scuffle the umpire held a short sleeve, but its owner had vanished.

Evans, who was seriously injured here five years ago, when he was struck by a thrown bottle, after the game asked the noisy spectator to step down on the field. The man climbed over the railing of the grandstand and walked up to the umpire, who asked him to come underneath the stand and settle matters.

When the arbiter's critic learned that he was in for a fight he cried for help. Evans caught hold of the shirt sleeve and tried to pull him into the players' "coop," but, instead, pulled the sleeve out of the man's shirt. At this stage of the affair Colonel Hedges, president of the local club, came along and escorted the frightened stranger from the park.

Eleven Inning Game Goes to McDonough

McDONOUGH, Ga., July 17.—The McDonough team defeated the strong Newborn team in an eleven inning game by a score of 5 to 1, the score being tied from the first inning to the eleventh. The features of the game were the pitching of Lester for McDonough, and Sanders for Newborn. This was the first of a series of three games.

Cuban ror Giants

NEW YORK, July 17.—Manager McGraw, of the New York National league team announced that he had signed Emilio Palmore, one of the star pitchers of the Almondares team of Havana. Palmero is a big fellow, six feet tall, with tremendous speed and one of his chief pitching assets. The new Cuban pitcher will report to the Giants next spring.

Little and Pell

NEW YORK, July 17.—R. D. Little and T. R. Pell, in the Round Robin doubles at the Country club of West Chester, defeated C. H. Jackson and J. B. Cornell 6-0, 6-4. The Princeton pair, G. M. Church and Dean Mathey, G. F. Touchard and W. P. Burden and L. E. Mahan and C. M. Bull, Jr., also won their matches.

But One Miss Of the Target

WILMINGTON, Del., July 17.—The Brandy Wine introductory for amateurs, the feature of the program of the eighth annual eastern handicap shoot, was won by Paul Von Beckman, of New York City, who broke 99 of his 100 targets. Bert Lewis, Auburn, Ill., and Vernon Williams, at Glen. Pa., tied for second place with 98 breaks each. Among the professionals, shooting for targets only, Charles G. Spencer, of St. Louis, was high, with 99 breaks; H. J. Borden, of Houston, Tex.; Homer Clark, of Alton, Ill.; H. D. Gibbs, Union City, Tenn., and Mrs. Topperwein, of San Antonio, Tex., had 98 breaks each.

William H. Heer, of Guthrie, Okla., who had an uncompleted ran of 227 straight at the close of Tuesday's events, added 37 more to his string before he missed yesterday.

M. L. Wise, of Marysville, Pa., led the amateurs in the preliminary handicap, breaking 94 of his hundred targets. L. Z. Lawrence, of Haddenfield, N. J., led the professionals with a score of 96 from 19 yards.

Griffin Twice Wins; After Good Games

GRIFFIN, Ga., July 17.—East Griffin baseball team defeated the Experiment Station in a game of ball by the score of 4 to 1. It was fast from start to finish. The feature of the game was the pitching of Bunn for East Griffin and the fast fielding of Morrison. This team also defeated Experiment on the 5th of July by the score of 6 to 3. The feature of that game was the pitching of Sauls. He struck out thirteen men and allowed but two hits. Woodruff also had a good day. He went to the bat and got a home run, a triple and two singles out of four times.

Batteries for the first game, Sauls and Rivers for Griffin; Huckaby and McGee, for Experiment. In the second game Bunn did the pitching for Griffin, while Rivers did the receiving; Experiment, McGee and Lewis and Huckaby.

East Griffin has a fast club and would like to hear from some fast teams. We will go anywhere in the state for expenses. We would like to hear from East Point and Millen in the near future. Address all mail to J. T. Morrison, Jr., 919 East Solomon street, Griffin, Ga.

Incorrect Reports Hurt Clean Ball

Boston, Ga., July 17, 1913.

Dear Mr. Sporting Editor: Please allow us space in your valuable paper to correct a false report that was sent in from Whigham concerning two baseball games that were played here on July 4, in which report it was stated that Whigham had defeated Boston in both games by scores of 9 to 3 and 6 to 1, and that the Whigham pitchers, Cross and Stribling, had allowed only one hit in each game.

Just where your Whigham correspondent got those scores from it is hard to imagine, unless it was through the Whigham players.

Whigham did win the morning game by a score of 8 to 4. Only four of Boston's regular players were in the game, the places of the absent ones being taken by high school players. The regular pitcher and catcher were out of the game on account of previous injuries. At that the crippled Boston team got seven safe hits off of Cross, the Whigham twirler.

Boston had a couple more of its regular players in the lineup in the afternoon game and things went along smoothly enough until the fourth inning. In that inning Boston started some fireworks that had gone as far as a base on balls and four safe hits with none down when the Whigham team realising that their pitcher, Early Stribling, of Bainbridge, was out of his class, quit the game, claiming that the umpire had given them a bad decision. The umpire of course forfeited the game to Boston 9 to 0.

In the same report it was stated that the Boston team did not pay all their expenses. The local team wired them one-way tickets on the day before the games, payed their hotel bill and gave them the money to purchase tickets back home in the presence of a dozen witnesses who will make oath to that effect. And all that despite the fact that Whigham had shown quitting tactics. What other expenses could they have had?

The Boston team has lost only three games out of eleven played and is ready for games with any amateur team in this section, with special challenges to the Thomasville amateurs, Cairo and Whigham. Would like to meet Whigham on the Thomasville diamond for a side bet of $100.

FRANK THRASHES SPENCER AND THEN RELEASES HIM

Following a fist fight on the train while en route from Nashville to Memphis between Manager Charley Frank and Outfielder Ray Spencer, of the Pelicans, in which the veteran gardner is said to have come out bad second and have drawn his unconditional release, President Hirsig announces that Jud Daley, of the locals, has been loaned to New Orleans for a few days.

The pugilistic battle between Frank and Spencer is said to be the culmination of much dissention on the team between both the players and the manager.

According to tales told by the Memphis ball players, Frank "called" Spencer for the wild throw to third he made in one of the Nashville games, following Nelson's triple, and Ray is said to have made a hot reply, stating that he never wanted to play for Cholly and that he was ready to quit. Words led to blows and when the two were parted Spencer sported a puffed mouth, black eye and several other minor injuries, while Frank also had a trade-mark over one of his orbits.

It is stated that there is also hard feeling between many of the players, who are naturally disgruntled over the poor showing of the team. Clancey and Adams are two of the most promising feudists, Adams alleging that the shortstop tried to "show him up" when he was forced to play first, making bad throws of easy chances, which he was unable to stop.

Another "sorehead" is Bagby, procured from the Billikens in a deal for Snedecor. Bagby has no love for playing first base, being a pitcher by his own confession and says if he isn't pitching he would like to play in the outfield, where they don't step on one's feet every time a play is made. The firing of Spencer has made his wish possible and he is now pastiming in the outer garden, where his hitting is expected to help the team, if his fielding isn't of the major league variety.

All these things being considered we should worry about the Pilcans finishing out of last place this year.—Nashville Tennesseean.

Here's a Remedy For the Passes

To the Sporting Editor of The Journal:

An article on your interesting page in yesterday's paper says there is no way of preventing a pitcher deliberately walking a good hitter to get at a weak one. Why wouldn't a rule like this do it? Make it optional with the batter whether, on four balls, he would take his base or not, or give him the privilege of conferring this right to take first base on the next succeeding batsman in the batting order, remaining himself at the bat. Some such rule will sooner or later be adopted, as the patrons of the game will not much longer stand for the unsportsmanlike practice of deliberately walking a hitter.

Star Golfers Enter Western Tournament

CHICAGO, July 17.—The team which will represent the Western Golf association in the Olympic cup competition at the Homewood Country club on Saturday will consist of Charles Evans, Jr., Warren K. Wood, William I. Howland, Jr., and Kenneth P. Edwards.

Additional entries for the western amateur championship include Harry Heyburn, of Louisville, one of the leading players of the south, and Howard E. Lee, former Michigan champion. The opening round of the tournament will be played on Monday.

McDermott Wins

PHILADELPHIA, July 17.—Jack McDermott, of Atlantic City, the national titleholder, won the Philadelphia open golf championship on the links of the Marion Cricket club with a card of 305 for 72 holes. Twenty-seven players, including twenty-five professionals, competed.

CHANCE GOT LITTLE END

NEW YORK, July 17.—It was semi-officially announced here that the recent feud between the New York and Chicago American league clubs involving Hal Chase, Rollie Zeider and Borton will be investigated by league authorities. Manager Frank Chance has requested the club officers to carry the case to the baseball court on the grounds that he was deliberately deceived regarding the condition of Borton and Zeider, whom he accepted in exchange for Chase.

Chance claims he was assured by Shaper Callahan, of the White Sox, that Zeider and Borton were physically capable of playing big league ball. The statement Chance declares was untrue, since Zeider had been spiked by Ty Cobb in Detroit two weeks before the trade and was under the care of the club trainer and a physician.

New York club officials say it may be two weeks before Zeider is able to play and that Borton proved far from being a player he was alleged to be.

A Second Pass To Lucky Fan

Stranger things have happened, but this incident is sufficiently queen to be remarked upon.

Out of the thousands of people in the bleachers during the last two weeks, the arrows happened to point to the same face twice.

L. M .Perdue is the doubly lucky fan. The latter part of last week he was snapped by the camera, and on Tuesday he was caught again.

We make our best bow to his luck and hope for the sake of the Crackers he will lay a small wager on their games. They will win.

Hurler for Yanks

DUNKIRK, N. Y., July 17.—Frank Schmitt, a semi-professional pitcher announced he had signed with the New York Americans. Schmitt is a heavy batter and fast on the bases.

Men of Atlanta!

You may spend extravagantly on your wardrobe—and still not seem well dressed if not well collared.

On the other hand, a correctly shaped Ide Silver Collar will go far toward giving you a well-groomed look, even though your clothes be most modest in cost.

1/4 Sizes Ide Silver Collars Two for 25c are beautifully made for fastidious dressers. Their style is as lasting as it is absolute. The Linocord Buttonholes (found in no other make) assure the correct effect and set of the collar every time it is worn, because they are Unbreakable and don't tear out.

Three very popular styles are here shown. There are scores of others. Try them.

JOURNAL WANT AD HOROSCOPE
JULY 18.

Boys and girls born on this date should be encouraged to take advantage of education. Education and good surroundings mean more to people of this birthdate than to any other in the Zodiac. Unless they are developed they are lazy, selfish, vain, jealous and do anything to get money to indulge their taste for display.

Women born on this date, unless curbed by pride, love dress, jewelry and will go to any extremes to get them. They love publicity and are always trying to see their names in print. They are clever but fickle and inconstant and are not happily married.

It will be seen how necessary it is that people born on this birthdate should recognize their faults and try to improve themselves in every way.

While astrology gives people their good qualities and tells them of their governing traits, it must also point out their faults, if it is to be really helpful. The Journal Want Ads this week will find good opportunities for work in every line that has to do with merchandise, with factories and offices.

Telephone your ad to The Journal, or ask that it be sent for—whichever is most convenient for you. Main 2000 or Atlanta 423.

POULTRY, PIGEONS AND LIVE STOCK

Prospects for Poultry Exhibits This Fall

As the circuits have been so completely arranged this fall any one can take a string of birds and go from one fair to another and make it pay handsomely in the amount of cash they would win, outside of the sales they would make. This same state of affairs existed eight or ten years ago and the opportunity has come around again for a breeder with a good show string to go out and make more money this fall than he has had an opportunity to do for many years. Those who are in a position to make a good display at the fairs this fall should begin now to get their birds in shape and prepare for this work as the trade will be awaiting them and prizes will be easier to win than ever before. Those who let this opportunity to win prizes and make sales that will be worth much to you from on advertising standpoint get away from you as the chance is for you here this fall. You can expect more or less competition from the eastern breeders as there are quite a few coming south and I am sure they will take advantage of the opportunity presented them for both this winter in this respect and will come south after this good money.

If you expect to make exhibits this fall it would be a good idea now to write the secretary of each of the county or state fair associations for a premium list and arrange your circuit for the season. Make up some string of birds if once put in condition and properly handled can be exhibited at half dozen or more shows, and a good bird can win several times its actual value at the many different shows exhibited at. The same opportunity will be offered at the winter shows as every city in the south will have good shows this winter and splendid premiums will be offered. There never has been a here before that such opportunities have been offered for the poultryman to make money as there is this year, and the poultrymen who take advantage of these opportunities certainly will be rewarded and will not regret it.

Yours very truly,

QUESTIONS ASKED AND ANSWERED.

Mr. Loring Brown, Smyrna, Ga.:

Dear Sir—I read quite often your advice on how to raise and care for poultry. Mr. Brown, I want to know what to do for my chickens and turkeys. They are dying all what we call cholera. They droop around a few days and die. We have cholera to get among our chickens two or three times each year.

We have a nice fowl house, with plenty fresh air, and the top is good, so as to keep out all rain. I noticed in article on the drinking trough. Very often I use carbolic acid in the water, and sometimes burn sulphur in the house.

Please advise me what to do and what causes cholera. We also busy everything that dies. My turkeys are also dying. I have a very fine gobbler sick now, and I am afraid I will lose him. Now, Mr. Brown, an early reply will be much appreciated. Yours truly,

MRS. B. R. TRUSDELL.
Camden, S. C., Route 3.

Your chickens and turkeys have what is known as limberneck. caused from eating either maggots or putrid matter of some kind that they get around the premises where the chickens have died, or have been buried. If you will yard all the chickens and turkeys in a place where they can get only clean, sound food, you can stop the trouble.

It is almost impossible to bury dead chickens or carcasses of any kind without the odor of it being scratched up or leaving the spot where it was buried contaminated, and when the chickens come in contact with this they get enough of the poisonous matter to kill them. It is always best to burn dead carcasses.

Conkey's limbernek cure will cure those that are not too far gone, and it should be fed to the well ones three days to be affected yet. Their systems should be thoroughly cleansed of the poison food that has been eaten, and when this is done they will get well.

I have never seen a case of chicken cholera, but have seen many cases of limbernek, which is mistaken for cholera, and at this season of the year many are having the same trouble you are having. With clean water, clean food and a clean yard, you can stop the trouble at once.

Yours truly,
LORING BROWN.

Court Orders Permit A. B. & A. to Condemn Property and Sign Contract With Southern for Walker Street Development, Which Will Proceed Shortly—Future of A. B. & A. Poplar Street Building—Hurt Bulding Ready Soon—Sales

Lacking only the permission of the city to cross Magum street with tracks, the syndicate behind the Walker street development is ready to proceed. Counsel will act on the petition next Monday.

Judge Pardee, of the federal court, has signed two orders affecting the A. B. & A. railroad, which will have joint use of the Walker street terminals. One order authorizes the A. B. & A. receivers to sign a contract with the Southern railway for the joint use of Walker street development, and the other authorizes them to condemn certain property on and around Magnolia street, which will be used as a right of way to connect with the Walker street terminals.

Until the A. B. & A. can lay the connecting tracks, it will use the Southern.

The A. B. & A. owned a parcel near the Nelson street bridge, which gave them the key to the Walker street situation, and to come through that property the Southern had to allow the A. B. & A. in the joint use of the developmetn. The Receivership proceedings for the A. B. & A. have held back the development of the project, but the delay has been ended by the court orders.

The syndicate has several leases under consideration, tis purpose is to erect large buildings fronting on Walker street between Nelson and Haynes streets. The Southern railway will lay tracks through the middle of the block, thus allowing tenants on Walker street trackage facilities in the rear.

Should the A. B. & A. be sold, which is probable, the purchaser will assume all contracts affecting the Walker street project.

It is conceded, although not officially announced, that the A. B. & A. will use the Terminal station. It was partly for this reason that it bought property in the Magnolia street section.

A. B. A. FUTURE.

It is possible, although not probable, that the A. B. & A. railroad may not be sold. It has a period of grace until August 1. Should the bondholders in the meantime decided to reorganize they could do so.

After the August 1, the sale of the road must be advertised for six weeks, that event, for certain legal reasons, being scheduled to take place at Ben Hill.

THIRD NATIONAL BANK BLDG. PHONE IVY 1276. ATL. 208.

St. Charles Ave. Bungalow, $6,500

THIS IS the kind of home that is seldom offered for sale. There is a reason here, the people are leaving Atlanta. It is on that beautiful part of St. Charles between Ponce De Leon Place and Monaventure. The lot is 50x179 feet, elevated facing south. Three bedrooms, tile bath and furnace. The living room strikes one as being home-like and comfortable, it's beamed ceiling and attractive brick open fireplace. If you are hard to please let's look at this.

"ASK MR. BABBAGE"

NORTHSIDE AND JAMES. (Entrance, 6 James street.) IVY 1561.

Ga. The special master has the right to accept or reject bids.

There have been all kinds of rumors about the probable purchaser of the railroads. To begin with the state may buy it because of its outlet to the coast.

It is persistently reported that the L. & N. may buy it, and one report mentioned the Seaboard.

Real estate owners are particularly interested in the effect of any change on close-in west side property.

POPLAR STREET BUILDING.

A building permit was granted Thursday to J. B. Thompson for the erection of a three-story and brick building at No. 29 Poplar street. The permit is for $10,000.

The building will be three stories, with a store on the ground floor and apartments above. The location is opposite the Poplar street entrance of the postoffice.

The building will occupy a space 21x100.

CAPITOL AVENUE SALE.

The Williams-Hartsock company has sold to Joseph A. Freedman No. 223 Capitol avenue for $7,500. The property is on the west side of the street, 165 feet north of Richardson street. The lot is 53x200. Mr. Freedman gave as part payment a lot in Inman Park valued at $5,700.

RAILROAD FRONTAGE SALE.

The Forrest Park Land company has sold to the Southern Wood Preserving company an industrial building site on tract on Mickleberry street and the Central railroad for $6,800. The tract is irregular, but about 82x200.

HURT BUILDING NOTE.

The Atlanta Realty corporation, owner of the Hurt building, announced Thursday that some of the tenants of the building would move into their offices on September 1 and others on October 1.

Although not officially announced, about a hundred offices—about a fourth of the space—already have been leased. Negotiations are now going on for the rest of the space.

It has been hardly six months since the first steel work was started. The building will be delivered complete by th contractors around October 1.

The building is fireproof, the corridors, elevators, floors and windows being so constructed.

The artistic effect of the exterior is enhanced by the entrance, a two-story dome finished in marble. The structure will contain over 400 offices.

MORE MULHALL LETTERS ARE READ TO COMMITTEE

Letter Read Bearing on Former President Roosevelt's Indorsement of Taft

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, July 17.—Martin M. Mulhall, self-styled lobbyist of the National Association of Manufacturers, continued his testimony before the senate lobby committee today. Some of the letters introduced dealth with former President Roosevelt's indorsement of the candidacy of Mr. Taft, then secretary of war.

In a letter to Schwedtman, secretary of the manufacturers, in April, 1908, Mulhall quoted the late Vice President Sherman as saying that the fight then raging on Speaker Cannon was a "dirty deal by the White House against the speaker."

"Watson states," wrote Mulhall, "that the president (Roosevelt) is moving heaven and earth to nominate Taft, and that he is willing to sacrifice the Sherman law and every law to please the trusts and please Wall street so that he can get their support for his candidate."

Mulhall also wrote of attending a meeting at Mr. Foraker's house, composed of senators "who will oppose the president and his policies at the Chicago convention." He added that he was told to work against Maryland delegates being instructed for Taft.

Prompt Action Saves Heavy Loss of Life When Cloud Bursts

(By Associated Press.)

WHEELING, W. Va., July 17.—Prompt action by telephone operators is believed to have prevented heavy loss of life in the region 12 miles east of here today after a cloudburst.

Water rolled in a wall out of Wheeling creek and Little Wheeling creek also was flooded, ruining crops and washing houses from their foundations.

So far as known no one was drowned, people at Viola and Majorsville fleeing to the mountains when warned of the coming torrent.

SHIP ENGINEER KILLED BY BOILER EXPLOSION

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, July 17.—The third engineer and a pumpman on the British freight steamer Fair Head were killed today by an explosion in the boiler room of the vessel, which was taking on a cargo of oil from the Standard Oil company off Constable Hook, N. J.

Sues Columbus Railroad

COLUMBUS, Ga., July 17.—John F. Newsome, through counsel, filed a suit for $10,000 yesterday afternoon against the Columbus Railroad company for alleged personal injuries, sustained on February 22 of the present year, while being in a collision between a car of the defendant company and a buggy.

COLUMBUS ISSUES BONDS FOR $60,000 HOSPITAL

Waterworks Bond Issue of $450,000 Is Next to Be Voted On

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

COLUMBUS, Ga., July 17.—Columbus is to have a new $60,000 hospital, the voters of the city having authorized on yesterday the issuance of bonds for the purpose.

While no definite plans have been agreed upon, it is the intention of the mayor and council to dispose of the present hospital property and secure a location in the center of the city for the new building.

It has been suggested by a member of the county commission that Muscogee co-operate with the city of Columbus in the construction of the proposed new hospital and put up a much larger and more creditable building, costing in the neighborhood of $100,000.

Registration books for the municipal waterworks bond issue of $450,000 opened today, and quite a number of the leading citizens entered their names, indicating their intention of pulling for the next bond issue as they did in the hospital bond election.

The bonded capacity of Columbus today is $710,000. It is argued by some of the more conservative that the proposed $450,000 is running the margin too close, and for this reason they talk of opposing the next bond issue. Others insist that the growth and progress of the city demands a new water system, and they are already in the "fight to a finish." The election is to be held on the 18th of October.

In the meantime the Columbus Water Supply company, the corporation now supplying the city with water, is making extensive improvements in the present plant, the total reason of which is in the neighborhood of $250,000.

Don't Look Old Before Your Time

WOMAN'S delicate system requires more than ordinary care and attention—more care and attention than it is given by the average woman.

Neglect it and ills soon creep in, and the look of old age, sometimes quickly, sometimes gradually follows.

That backache, so common among women, brings with it the sunken chest, the headache, tired muscles, crow's-feet, and soon the youthful body is no more youthful in appearance—and all because of lack of attention.

There is no reason why you should be so unfortunate, when you have at your disposal a remedy such as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription—recommended for over 40 years as a remedy for ailments peculiar to women. We have thousands upon thousands of testimonials on file—the accumulation of years—testifying to its effectiveness. Neither narcotics nor alcohol are to be found in this famous prescription. Regulates irregularities, Corrects displacements, Overcomes painful periods, Tones up nerves. Brings about perfect health. Sold by dealers in medicines, in liquid or tablet form.

Dr. Pierce's Medical Adviser, newly revised up-to-date edition, answers heats of delicate questions about which every woman, single or married ought to know.

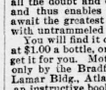
The Joy Of Coming Motherhood

A Wonderful Remedy That is a Natural Aid and Relieves the Tension.

Mother's Friend is the only remedy known that is able to reach all the different parts involved. It is a penetrating external application after the formula of a noted family doctor, and lubricates every muscle, nerve, tissue or tendon involved.



By its daily use there will be no pain, no distress, no nausea, no danger of laceration or other accident, and the period will be one of supreme comfort and joyful anticipation.

Mother's Friend is one of the greatest of all helpful influences, for it robs childbirth of all its agonies and dangers, dispels all the doubt and fears of the future, and thus enables the mind and body to await the greatest event in a woman's life with untrammeled calmness.

You will find it on sale at all drug stores at $1.00 a bottle, or the druggist will gladly get it for you. Mother's Friend is prepared only by the Bradfield Regulator Co., 237 Lamar Bldg., Atlanta, Ga., who will mail an instructive book to expectant mothers. Write for it to-day.

LATHROP GEORGE HELD ON MANSLAUGHTER CHARGE

Man Who Killed McClellan Is Well-Nigh Freed by Coroner's Jury

SAVANNAH, aG., July 17.—Lathrop George, the man who killed Henry J. McClelan, in the house occupied by George's wife on Tuesday afternoon.

George said he had been forced to leave his wife because of the attention McClellan paid her.

George changed his story to the coroner's jury very decidedly from what he first told.

The coroner stated that only one bullet took effect and that death was caused by a hemmorrhage of the lungs brought on by the piercing of the breast by this single bullet. The other shots fired went wild, one going out of the window.

Mrs. George seems more distressed at the death of McClellan than at the fate of her husband. Instead of going to the barracks and the jail to see George yesterday she went to the undertaker's to bid farewell to her dead friend. She was much affected and went audibly.

George has the advantage in his case of not having any eyewitnesses to the shooting. He is the only man who can tell about it. He was very accommodating yesterday.

HOUSE FAVORS FOURTH JUDGE FOR ATLANTA

Bill Passes by Unanimous Vote and Now Goes to the Senate

By a unanimous vote the house Thursday passed the bill of the Fulton delegation providing for an additional judge for the Atlanta circuit of the superior court.

The bill came to the house with a favorable recommendation and was passed without opposition. Under its provisions the governor is empowered to make an appointment fr a term ending January 1, 1915. After that time the judge shall be elected as prescribed by law.

The measure nw goes to the senate for its approval before the governor can sign it.

TAR HEEL SOLONS TO GET WAGES OF $300 PER YEAR

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

RALEIGH, N. C., July 17.—The constitutional amendment commission adopted today a proposal to pay members of the legislature. The pay shall be $600 per term of two years, with mileage, instead of $6 per day for members and $10 for presiding officers, as proposed.

The change came through an amendment proposed by Senator Grant. The present pay is $4 per day and mileage.

The Waste That Haste Makes

To busy people the most valuable thing in the world is time. We may lose our money, our friends or our umbrellas and possibly get them back again, but an hour once gone is gone forever.

That is rather a sobering thought.

But this does not mean that we must conduct our affairs in wild haste, because there is almost as much time lost in a lifetime by misdirected energy as there is by idleness.

In order to get the best results in using time, it is necessary to plan first and act afterwards. In that way we may avoid any superfluous motions.

Take, for example, one field of activity—the purchase of all the articles for our daily use. We have all wasted precious hours scurrying here and there, uncertain what we wanted and where to find it. Finally we have returned home and announced triumphantly that, "Just by luck I ran across the very thing at So and So.'s." That little expression "just by luck" shows lack of forethought and does us no credit. If we had spent ten minutes reading the advertisements in THE JOURNAL we could have planned the shopping trip intelligently beforehand and saved our time, energy, and some money as well.

GEORGIA STINGY WITH MILITIA, SAYS EVANS

U. S. Army General Declares It Fine Organization Considering Small Appropriation

Praise of Georgia's militia from no less an authority than General R. K. Evans, commanding the local brigade of the United States army, is coupled with the general's assertion that Georgia's policy toward her citizen soldiery is "parsimonious" as contrasted with that of other states.

Georgia's militia is better than we have any right to expect it to be, upon the appropriations given to it, he says. He admits that it is competent and satisfactory as an insurance for order in the state, but he continues that it would be correspondingly more competent if Georgia were more generous toward it. Armories and camps are essential, says he, and for them money is needed. Georgia gives less than one-fourth of what the national government gives to the militia within her own borders. She gives in proportion to her population just one-tenth of what Ohio gives.

GENERAL AN EXPERT.

General Evans' commendation upon the excellence of Georgia's troops notwithstanding their handicap of small funds is the commendation of an expert upon a particular topic with which he is familiar. As an army brigadier, General Evans is well qualified to speak; and as the commanding officer in this southeastern country during several months past, he has had the opportunity to observe Georgia's militia at first hand.

From the standpoint of an army man conversant with the very important problem of national defense, he argues the great need that an efficient militia meets—the need of a bulwark against anarchy within the states, of insurance against that disorder which would involve the nation with foreign powers interested in the protection of the eighteen billions of dollars which they have invested in the United States.

WHAT GENERAL SAYS.

"The militia of the United States is a very important feature among our institutions, because it is the first bulwark against anarchy," says General Evans, "and we are frequently perilously near anarchy in a greater part of our country.

"As an example of the seriousness of a state of anarchy in a country, we have only to look upon Mexico.

"The day has passed when the civilized world will allow a nation in which foreign capital is invested to lapse into a state of anarchy. Foreigners who invest capital in any country do so with the hope of having it pay a dividend. And as soon as local conditions become such that dividends cannot accrue, the simple principle of self-interest forces them to take the necessary steps to maintain sufficient order for their investments to pay interest.

"It is said that one billion dollars of American capital, and one billion dollars of European capital are invested in Mexico.

"Some statistics give the amount of foreign capital invested in the United States at eighteen billion dollars.

"Should a state of anarchy so serious and prolonged occur as to prevent the payment of interest on these investments, in all probability the nations owning investments here would take the necessary steps to restore order in their own way simply to insure the payment of interest on their capital.

"There is not a state in the Union in which the militia is not called out repeatedly in the course of every year to maintain order.

"So the militia is not only the first organized and dependable force for maintaining order in the several states, but it also gives us an indirect protection against that inevitable foreign intervention which will come whenever foreign investments cease to pay a dividend because of disorder.

"The militia of Georgia is a perfectly competent and satisfactory insurance for order in this state. They have some conspicuous advantages—principally their excellent militia laws, which in some ways are the best in the United States, and also because of the high-class of citizens which compose the rank and file.

MILITIA NEEDS MONEY.

"It must be remembered that the militia, like any other twentieth century proposition, requires the judicious expenditure of an adequate amount of money, in order to be successful and efficient.

"The state of Georgia generally appropriates $25,000 for the maintenance of its militia. The militia undoubtedly would be correspondingly better if the legislature appropriated more money.

"Ohio appropriates 10 cents per capita, which with a population of 4,700,000, gives $470,000 per year for the militia in that state.

"If Georgia, with a population of 2,000,000, were equally generous with the militia, she would appropriate $260,000—ten times as much as she gives now.

"Georgia's apportionment from the appropriations by congress under the militia law is considerably over $100,000. As the militia is a partnership force between the state and the general government, it would be only fair play for Georgia to increase considerably her appropriations. This increased appropriation is needed for the protection and maintenance of armories and for providing camping facilities for the militia for much longer periods than is possible under present parsimonious conditions.

"New York spends up in the millions on her militia.

"This $260,000 for Georgia's share would not be high for insurance against disorder.

"The Georgia militia is better than we have any right to expect when we consider the financial support given to it by the state."

CANDLER COUNTY LOSES IN THE LOWER HOUSE

Failed to Get Constitutional Majority of 123 Votes

Candler county met defeat in the house of representatives Thursday morning when the bill for its creation failed to get the necessary constitutional majority of 123 votes. The vote on the measure was 83 to 80 in favor of its passage.

A call for the previous question, the effect of which was to prevent the opponents of the county from addressing the house, aroused some opposition to the bill from sources not expected, and caused it to receive a smaller vote than it might otherwise have obtained.

A motion to reconsider the action of the house was made and the question will probably come up again at an early date.

BODY FOUND IN FLORIDA NOT THAT OF H. E. CLARY

The friends of H. E. Clary, who travels for the publishing house of Peter F. Collier & Sons, will be glad to learn that the story sent out Wednesday to the effect that a body identified as that of H. E. Clary had been found on the outskirts of Tallahassee, Fla., is not true, and that Mr. Clary is well and safe.

Mrs. Eva Clary, the mother of H. E. Clary, who lives at 7 Boulevard place, was much distressed upon reading the report. She immediately telegraphed friends in Tallahassee, who assured her that her son was alive and well. Also the branch office of the house with which Mr. Clary works in the Austell building notified Mrs. Clary that they had received a report from her son on Thursday morning, which had been mailed Wednesday after the reported death at Tallahassee.

A later dispatch adds further emphasis to the correction. The body found has been definitely identified as that of William Steinhousen, of Helena, Fla.

Lungs Were Affective; Now in Good Health

The makers of Eckman's Alterative, a remedy for Throat and Lung Troubles, do not claim that it will restore every one to perfect health, but so many have voluntarily testified it saved their lives that all who have this dread disease should investigate and try it. It should stop the night sweats, reduce fever, promote appetite and in very many cases prolong life. Read what it accomplished in this case:

Catherine Ave. and Ascot Place, Queen's Court, L. I.

"Gentlemen: In the year 1908 I was taken with a heavy cold and a nasty cough and went to several doctors, including a specialist. Their medicines failed. My brother then recommended Eckman's Alterative as the very thing. It is now nearly two years since I first took it. I am now well and I dare say that I would have been buried long ago if it had not been for Eckman's Alterative. I wish to thank you for the Godsend to me. Wherever I go I highly recommend the Alterative, as I owe my life to it."

(Affidavit) JOS. J. TROESCHER.

Eckman's Alterative has been proven by many years' test to be most efficacious in cases of severe Throat and Lung Affections, Bronchitis, Bronchial Asthma, Stubborn Colds and in upbuilding the system. Does not contain narcotics, poisons or habit-forming drugs. For sale by Jacobs' Pharmacy and other leading druggists. Write the Eckman Laboratory, Philadelphia, Pa., for booklet telling of recoveries and additional evidence.—(Advt.)

WATER OF EAST LAKE IS FINE FOR BATHERS

Chemical Analysis Shows That It Contains Nothing Objectionable

Why go to the Great Lakes for the summer? Why not go swimming at East Lake instead, and get the same benefits?

At least that's the way the devotees of East Lake are looking at the question of a summer vacation since the recent analysis of the waters of the lake.

As usual, this summer, a number of bacteria—shy people began to talk of the dangers of going in swimming, and the purity of East Lake water was debated.

"Well, we'll just settle this doubt, once and for all," mourned the secretary of the club, B. E. Thrasher, and forthwith he betook himself to the lake's edge where he dipped up a plentiful supply of the water.

He sent te water in three samples to the McCanless laboratory for a chemical analysis, with instructions that they find out just whether or not the water could possibly be dangerous to bathers.

The analysis was returned Tuesday with this statement: "The samples of lake water, 1, 2 and 3, respectively, compare very favorably in the sanitary analysis with the waters of Lake Superior and Lake Erie (Superior samples taken forty miles out, and Erie samples from middle of lake) which are of well known high character; and we should say that there could be no possible objection to the water represented in these samples for bathing purposes."

SPECIAL COMMITTEE FOR ALL TAX REFORM BILLS

Such Is Resolution of Representative Swift to Reconcile Many Opinions

With the hope of reconciling the many views of the legislators and crystallizing them upon a measure which will afford genuine tax reform, Representative H. H. Swift, of Musogee, Thursday morning introduced a resolution in the house providing for the appointment of a special committee to consider all bills relating to tax equalization.

This resolution, which provides for a committee of eleven, to be appointed by the speaker, and which includes the chairmen of the house ways and means and appropriations committees as ex-officio members, was referred to the rules committee. It will be reported back to the house Friday morning.

Should this resolution be adopted, and it doubtless will be, the framing of a tax equalization law will be taken out of the hands of the ways and means committee, which has submitted two reports to the house. The majority report recommends a bill drafted by Representative J. E. Sheppard, of Sumter, which provides for the creation of county boards of tax equalizers and gives powers of general supervision to the comptroller general; the minority report favors the bill of Representative F. A. Lipscomb, of Clarke, embracing both a central or state board of equalizers as well as county boards.

These two bills were reported to the house Wednesday.

The Swift resolution sets out that the state's tax system is antique and unscientific; that tax revision is the most important question before the general assembly, and that the financial needs of the state make imperative adequate legislation on this subject at this session.

It goes on to say that both majority and minority reports have been submitted, and that it is desirable that these conflicting views be reconciled before the house acts, and that it has been reported in the public press that the ways and means committee has reported a bill to the house which no member of the committee, except its author, has read or understood. Such a report, says the resolution, is calculated to arouse criticism if the house acts too hastily.

It is provided in the resolution that every bill bearing on tax reform or tax equalization shall be submitted to the special committee, which shall report on or before July 28 such a bill or bills as in the judgment of the committee are designed to best rearrange the tax system.

GEN. WRIGHT TAKES OVER BIG INSURANCE COMPANY

American Life and Annuity Co. Will Stand Intact Pending Effort to Reorganize

By order of Judge W. D. Ellis, of the superior court, the American Life and Annuity company has been placed in the hands of General William A. Wright, as insurance commissioner, the assets of the corporation to be held intact pending efforts to effect a reorganization and continue business.

The action of the court was taken Thursday morning, the case having been postponed from Monday, when the suit for a receiver was first set.

In the answer to the petition of the comptroller general, Attorney J. J. Hastings, who represents the company, claimed that within sixty days the assets of the company will amount to $185,000, because of certain debts that will then be due. The total liabilities are only approximately $90,000, which will leave about 25 cents on the dollar for the holders of income certificates. The majority of the holders of the certificates, it is claimed, favor a reorganization of the company.

The company will accordingly remain in the hands of the comptroller general until a reorganization meeting. If the reorganization plan then fails, a liquidation order will again be sought either through the comptroller general or the creditors of the company.

Georgians Hold Record On Long Distance Trip To Summering Resort

WORCESTER, Mass., July 17.—Of 1,000 persons summering in Worcester county in and near the lakes and rivers of this section, Mr. and Mrs. Charles M.
